

Exorcist Expells Satan from DC

By JOHN HORGAN
Priests at St. Andrew's Catholic Church in Daly City have been involved in at least two serious cases of reported demonic possession in the last two years.

According to the Rev. James Moher and the Rev. Thomas Rolle, pastor and assistant pastor respectively at the North County church, both cases tested the wits and mettle of a number of trained exorcists.

In the most recent case, it took priests and others 15 days of concentrated professional effort to rid a family of three persons of their evil spirit.

Father Rolle handled the case at first.

He says the family came to St. Andrew's with its problem and he tried to aid them. But he was not successful.

"I worked with them for two or three weeks," Father Rolle said. The first involvement of Father Rolle and the church came last summer.

Others were then brought in to help.

Finally, the Rev. Karl Patzelt, S.J., was called in. He is a skilled Jesuit exorcist. He led the final spiritual assault on the Daly City demon.

The Rev. Karl Patzelt

Contacted in San Francisco Friday night, Father Patzelt said the North County exorcism was the only one he has performed in the Bay Area, but that he has investigated several other cases of suspected possession.

One such case exists in San Jose at the present time, he revealed. He spent much of Friday at the home of the troubled family in that South Bay region.

"Yes, I have seen some extremely interesting things there so far," he said. "So far, I am still only investigating this case."

Regarding his Daly City exorcism, Father Patzelt said he never felt physically threatened. Despite a great deal of physical phenomena, he still considers his local effort as "an average exorcism."

The family told Father Patzelt the first incidents occurred for a 10-week period in the spring of 1972. Apparently the devil wearied and ceased or decreased his activities for a year but then he attacked the family with renewed fury in May, 1973, Father Patzelt said.

"Since then they could sleep only two hours each night, from 4 a.m. to 6 a.m., because of the disturbances caused by the evil one — throwing around their shoes, breaking windows, putting towels on fire, hitting them, and thousands of other dirty tricks," he said.

He said he had personally felt and observed some of Satan's chicanery while in the couple's house, particularly during the exorcism rites.

Father Patzelt said he does not know why the devil chose this couple for a target. He said the husband works at San Francisco International Airport for United Airlines and the family was "very, very average."

The family's name will not be released until a news conference in Washington, D.C.

"It was a test of their faith in God, how much that faith would tolerate or break under the attacks of the devil," the priest said. "He was trying to bring them on his side by bringing all kinds of trouble and attacks. If they had yielded, the incidents would have stopped."

The priest recounted some of the devil's tactics, including physical assaults on the young couple and strange incidents involving the little boy.

One time the boy woke up crying in his crib and his worried parents ran in his room to that "some force" had put a rocking chair on top of him.

According to the Rev. William Wood, S.J., a chaplain at the University of San Francisco, one particularly "frightening incident which occurred at the house was an exploding noise of terribly violent proportions which shook the house."

Father Wood did not attend any of the rites at the home but he has been in close contact with several people who were.

In the first case, which occurred nearly two years ago, Father Moher said the family was successfully relieved of its evil influence.

He added that Father Patzelt was not involved in that instance.

He would not comment further on either case. "You can understand why," he stated.

It is reported that the family is Spanish-American.

Father Patzelt, who is known as "Father Karl" by his intimates, has written a lengthy account of the latest Daly City case. It was published in the November, 1973, edition of "Provincial News," an in-house publication by and for members of the Jesuit Order.

Officials of the Archdiocese of San Francisco are displeased with Patzelt's actions.

One spokesman for the archdiocese said Friday that, "We have nothing whatever to do with this. This is the exorcist himself taking advantage of a situation."

The archdiocese would have no comment on any of the details of either Daly City possession case.

Both Father Rolle and Father Moher have endeavored to keep the names of both families confidential.

Because of recent publicity about and interest in demonism, Catholic officials fear that a rash of reports of possession will result.

The subject has received a great deal of publicity in the last several months.

A Jesuit priest at the University of Santa Clara offered that, "Much of this has been sensationalized lately. People seem to be ripe for it."

North County Hearing

Guadalupe Backs Chocho Closing

The County Board of Health and Welfare took the controversial recommended closure of the county's Chocho Community Hospital, to the North County Monday.

Meeting at Jefferson High School in Daly City, the board heard a summary of the Task Force study on Chocho from Mary M. Jung, a Task Force member, and input from several North County citizens and members of the Chocho Hospital medical staff.

The closing of the county hospital was one of four primary Task Force recommendations, but the only one to stir controversy.

Citizen and physician alike agreed to the need for eligibility reform, improved transportation and addition of dental care for county patients.

However, that generally was where the concurrence ended as Chocho staff members chided the Task Force report and leaders of the Guadalupe Health Clinic in Daly City among others, lent support to the idea of closing Chocho.

The Task Force proposal calls for elimination of Chocho Hospital and decentralization of health care through the use of existing facilities such as the Guadalupe Health Clinic and Mary's Help Hospital in Daly City, the Drew Health Center in East Palo Alto, Peninsula Hospital in Burlingame and Sequoia Hospital in Redwood City.

Formation of a consumer-provider council to meet regularly concerning county patient care also was proposed.

The Task Force, a group of county staff officials, was appointed by Dr. George Pickett, county director of health and welfare, following authorization by the County Board of Supervisors in 1972.

Some 100 persons were at the input session Monday, but fewer than half appeared to be from the North County. The others identified themselves as mid-county residents — who said they found Chocho facilities and physicians excellent and urged that they be retained — or staff members at Chocho.

The medical men, all urging retention of Chocho, expressed concern over the quality of medical care patients might get in the future if Chocho were closed, questioned the accuracy of Task Force cost figures and cited previous attempts by staff members to improve Chocho administratively.

In some cases, the doctors said they were in favor of expanding facilities into other areas, but were opposed to breaking up Chocho.

Mary Jung said it was the Task Force "position that we wish to guarantee the same high care now being offered at Chocho."

She added that there is nothing in the report to "show a lowering of quality."

Dr. Pickett in answer to a question regarding retention of Chocho and extension of facilities into the north and south portions of the county, said the volume of users would be insufficient to operate Chocho efficiently and economically.

He said he believed patients would choose treatment at facilities closer to their homes; thus the main users of Chocho would be the residents in its immediate area.

Guadalupe's Keaty said he did not want welfare patients treated as "a county or charity patient."

Mary Jung said private hospital spokesmen have assured that there would not be discriminatory care. "We can only take the word from the people involved in this," she added.

"Medical care will become fragmented," said Dr. Basil Meyerowitz, Chocho chief of staff. He added that decentralization "has never saved money."

The Daly City-based Guadalupe Health Clinic's leaders are studying the Task Force report, according to Chuck Keaty, the facility director.

Keaty said he favored decentralization as a means of providing medical care to the poor closer to their residences and where there was adequate manpower, sensitivity and cultural compatibility.

He said he felt "very strongly" that the county is moving toward a "single-

Wind Whisks Glider Devotee to Death

Thomas Williamson, 21-year-old hang-glider enthusiast, died of electrocution when his body hit the 12,000-volt line in Daly City Sunday, a coroner's autopsy determined Monday.

It was a great day for hang-glider soaring, enthusiasts of the sport declared

Sunday as two dozen persons gathered on a Daly City cliff 300 feet above the ocean beach to watch the fearless flyers whip about in the air currents.

Thomas Williamson, 21, of 2778 Glen Firth Drive, San Jose, was enjoying his second "great day" of hang-soaring since he suffered a leg injury a few weeks before while practicing the popular new sport.

Sunday, Williamson, along with other flyers, fastened on the aluminum wings, strapped himself in place and jumped off the cliff high above the blue Pacific Ocean.

This spot, at the end of Northridge Avenue in Daly City, is reported to be the finest spot in the country for the sport and an increasing number of spectators and participants gather almost daily.

Air currents swirl off the ocean, hit the cliff face and shoot upward, carrying the flyers to startling heights.

It's a dangerous sport, reserved only for the hardiest.

Williamson was good at this sport, other flyers said.

But the wind was tricky Sunday.

It shot Williamson into the air and, after circling for a few minutes, pushed him inland and into a utility pole carrying 12,000 volts of electricity.

After hitting and snapping the wires, Williamson's body hurtled onto a roof on Montclair Avenue and came to rest at a neighboring home tangled in the crumpled glider.

The high-voltage wires were about 30 feet off the ground.

Daly City Policeman Dennis Pinnatore arrived minutes after the crash and tried to revive Williamson with mouth-to-mouth resuscitation and closed heart massage.

Trio Slain in DC Apartment

A Daly City family of three was found dead in their Mission Street apartment Monday night, the apparent victims of a double murder and suicide.

The bodies of Wilson Leong, 38, his wife, Pansy, 33, and son, David, seven months, were discovered by a relative in the apartment's bedroom about 7:40 p.m.

They had been dead for several hours, police said.

A coroner's aide said the baby's body was wet and the toilet had been stopped up. He theorized that the child was drowned in the bathroom and placed back in the small crib.

The wife left a 21-page letter written in Chinese. She was unhappy over money, her marital problems and the fact she believed her husband did not love her any more, the letter said.

Mrs. Leong was clad in street clothes and the husband and son were in pajamas and covered with blankets, police said.

The husband was shot in the head with a .38 caliber, revolver apparently while he slept, according to police.

Officer John Mallin was flagged down by the victim's brother, Wah Tin Leong, who told police he was unable to get his brother to answer the door.

He was worried "something had happened to them," police said.

Firemen were called to cut an inside chain on the door and enter the building.

The Leongs had been married for about two years and lived in Daly City for the past year, it was learned.

They were experiencing marital problems and were about to separate, police said.

"The home was neat and orderly," Police Lt. Thomas Cully stated.

Former SSF Police Officer Fazackerley To Abandon Appeal, Take Retirement

A South San Francisco police officer who was acquitted on charges of assault and battery Monday agreed Friday to abandon his appeal of his firing and accept a deferred retirement.

The agreement was signed by former Officer Keith S. Fazackerley, Police Chief Sal Rosano, City Manager El Alario and Fazackerley's attorney, Thomas Bocci.

The personnel board hearing on the appeal had been scheduled to begin last Monday night.

A series of hearings on Fazackerley's previous firing last spring had created such furor in the midst of a city council election campaign that Chief Rosano's job had been said by some to have been on the line.

In exchange for Fazackerley's abandonment of his appeal, the City of South San Francisco agreed to withdraw its firing of Fazackerley and to accept the deferred voluntary retirement of Fazackerley — a six-year employee — who now leaves in good standing. His retirement is effective as of Nov. 12, 1973, the date of his firing.

Chief Rosano, meanwhile, angrily replied to a statement by Bocci that from the day that Fazackerley was reinstated, following his first firing last spring, that he was a marked man, "victim of a concerted effort by the police department to terminate him."

"This was untrue," Rosano retorted. "We assigned him to work with other officers on the same basis as them."

The police, he declared, did not solicit the complaints that came from citizens against Fazackerley. Instead, he said, "we examined the complaints very carefully before determining the truth."

Outburst Spurs Suspension

By JACK BIK

Terra Nova High School student Zoe Joyner, awaiting the end of her seven-day suspension from that Pacifica school, has expressed no regret for her action that led to her suspension.

On the other hand, authorities hope she has learned that there are certain things that you do not tell a mayor at a school meeting.

"Radical improvisation theater" is how Zoe described her one-person protest demonstration last Wednesday when Miss California, Susan K. Shipley, visited Terra Nova High as the guest of Pacifica Mayor Aubrey Lumley, who also is chairman of the Miss Pacifica Pageant, and Principal Thanos Panagoulas.

The purpose of the visit was to inform Pacifica women of the Terra Nova pageant and what it had to offer. Present at Terra Nova cafeteria were some 30 senior girls who wanted to learn about the pageant.

According to Zoe, as Lumley began to speak, she stood up and asked him that since the important thing about a woman is her measurements, how about this man telling us his measurements so we know if he's worth listening to. Lumley explained that the pageant stressed talent rather than measurements. He discussed the various scholarships, and other awards given.

Zoe argued from the floor. She held up some trophies which her pet dog had won in some dog shows. She offered

The Middle Ages Revisited; A Call for Chastity Belts

In this day of alleged "loose morals," a Daly City blacksmith has discovered there is a growing demand for an item that was first marketed in the Middle Ages — chastity belts.

Beau Hickory, of 337 Bellevue Ave., has been a blacksmith for the better part of his 44 years, following in his father's footsteps.

With anvil and hammer, Hickory transforms white hot metals into works of art.

His reproductions of chest plates, 14th century jousting suits, helmets from the 17th century, swords and Kentucky rifles, exact in every detail, attest to his skills as a master craftsman.

But a small article in a recent edition of Playboy magazine concerning his manufacture of chastity belts has brought forth a flood of inquiries about this gadget designed to protect the virtue of its wearer while her True Love was off to fight the Holy Wars.

"Chastity belts have always been the subject of ribald humorists, never really taken seriously," Hickory, who himself does not take them seriously, says.

Hickory claims the belts were never practical and points to the fact that there were only two "proven cases" of a woman being outfitted with one of the cumbersome devices.

Both are authenticated by a British museum curator, Hickory said.

Joke or not, a well-made chastity belt produced by Barbary Coast Enterprises (Hickory's business name) will cost from $145 up. Male models are also available.

Hickory, in every sense of the word, is an artist.

He doesn't like to discuss money, either what he paid for something or how much it would cost to acquire one of his art works.

He currently has two loves: one is teaching his art to a handful of devoted students. (See Page 6, Column 1)

Jefferson High Plans Maintenance Pool

A plan to pool district maintenance resources and skills was discussed at length at the study session of the Board of Trustees of the Jefferson Union High School District, Jan. 16.

The new program will emphasize expertise. Dr. Floyd Gonella, assistant superintendent, explained that the district has "some talented people, who should not, perhaps, be limited to working at one school. There would be a possibility that we would draw on certain of this expertise from different schools."

bringing in other workers, but using the people we have to accomplish some of the larger, district-wide maintenance projects. We might combine two or three maintenance men to work in one area," he said.

"I'm not saying that we are going to save money," Dr. Gonella added, "but we will get things done."

A second, equally important phase of the program concerns appropriate monies. John Angle, district building and grounds coordinator, explained that he would like "to bring all maintenance budgets under one roof, directed by district need rather than by school need."

"All bills would be fed, through the district's data processing service, whereby we could obtain a better picture of all our needs. If we wanted to know the cost of broken windows at a particular school for a particular month, we could have the answer immediately," he said.

Ed Morgan, superintendent, expanded on this subject, explaining that "Dr. Robert Watt, assistant superintendent in charge of business, is working on the key-punch budget system."

"All schools in California will be moving into the Planned Program Budgeting System, mandated by the State Legislature. The budget will look entirely different," he said.

"Next year's budget will be broken up in a way that it has never been before, and will involve an awful lot of work and cost."

The information this system would be capable of providing, however, would make it well worth while, he indicated. "The problem is to be sure the information given the machine is accurate," he emphasized.

By relocating job duties within the present system and placing the 57 members of the custodial crew under Angle's direction, the vice principals would be left relatively free to assist the principals to a greater degree.

Their work load conflicts with Morgan's idea that "a principal has to be relieved of all duties with the exception of education." In order to reach this ultimate goal, the assistant must be able to take on some of the principal's many tasks.

"The Dent Bill requires a yearly evaluation of all district employees," Morgan explained. "If the principal is going to get into every classroom during the year — 175 school days — the vice principal will have to help," and therefore, the excessive duties of both men will have to be delegated somewhere else.

"This delegation is going to have to become more and more a district function," he said.

Reaction to the new concept first came from Trustee Albert Teglia. "You have to organize to meet problems, and I have pushed for more centralized organization in San Mateo County," he said.

"It's a hesitation of giving up what you have here and moving it somewhere else, but it's something you will develop confidence in."

"If you have to take a little from one school and a little from another school and put it in yet a third school, then that's what you will have to do, because the type of maintenance is keyed to maintenance services for education," he said.

There were also some doubtful questions raised. Trustee Ruth Boudinot expressed concern over definition of duty. "It will be necessary to put down on paper what the expectations of the personnel will be so everyone will know what they are to do."

"All should be involved and all should know who's doing what and who's going to be responsible," she said.

"It is also important that we know when maintenance is maintenance and when maintenance is maintenance necessary to the educational process."

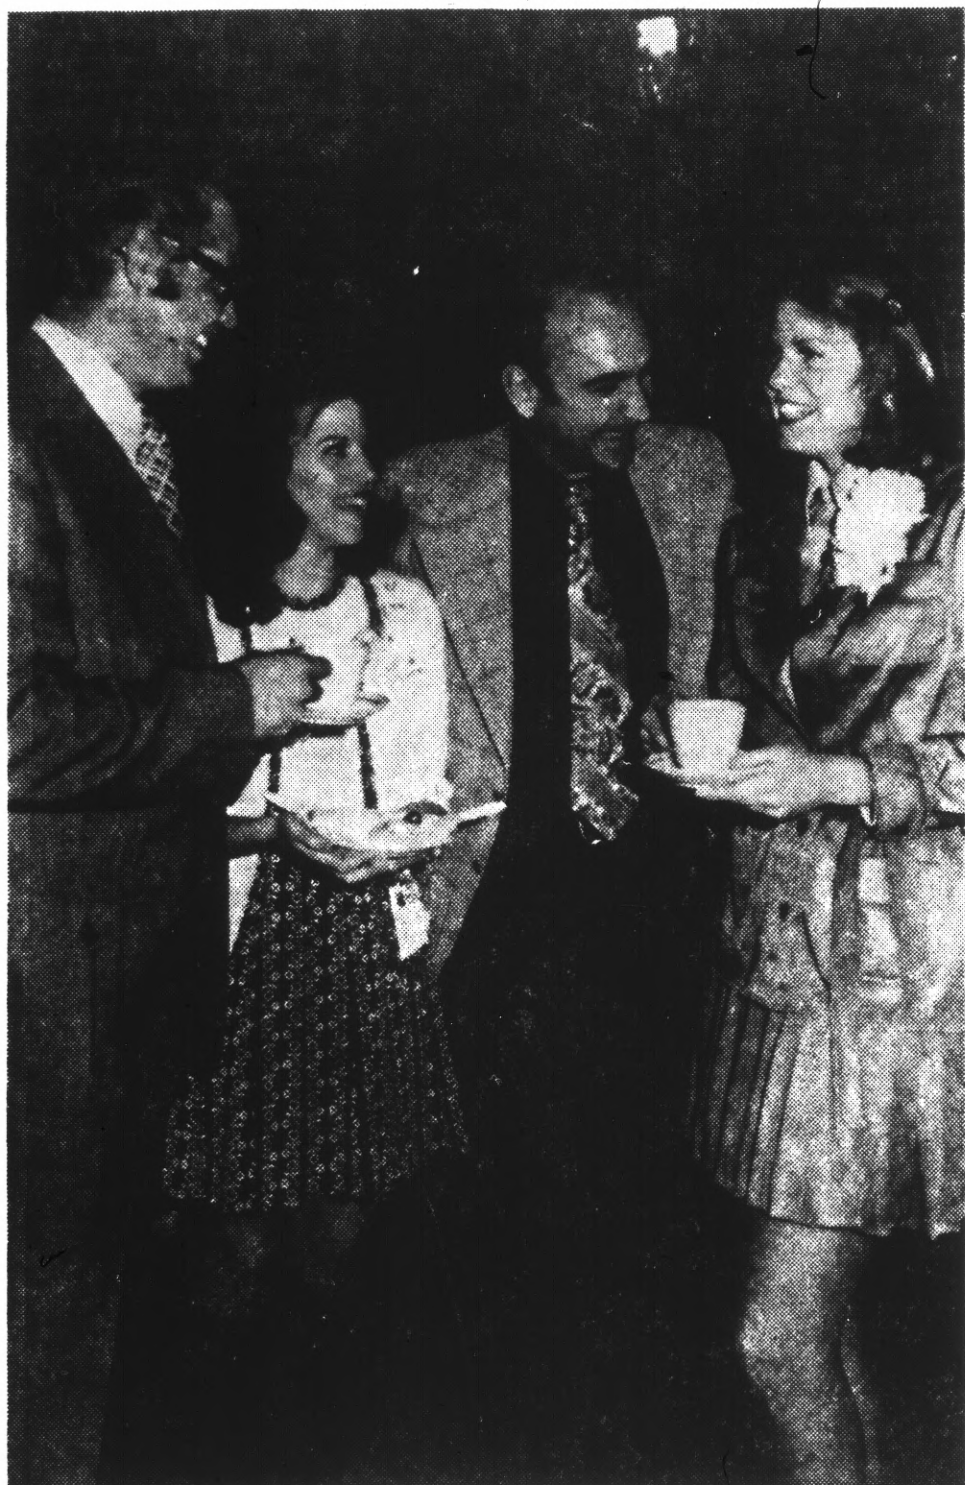

The major doubt in the mind of Trustee Chairwoman Jane Powell, was leaving a school without a maintenance man during the time when he would be working at another campus.

"I would hate for us to implement such a program and then find that we have really hurt ourselves," she explained.

"I don't think it's fair to take someone off a job and tell everyone else that they have to work twice as hard to make up for it. I think we should all use corporate effort, but we should also look at what these corporate efforts will do to other people."

Mrs. Powell suggested using substitute workers to replace those temporarily transferred to other schools. "If a teacher is absent, you bring in a substitute. You don't expect the teacher next door to run back and forth and take care of both classes," she said.

'We May Go It Alone'

JESD Raps City Recreation Program

Unless the City of Daly City cooperates with the Jefferson Elementary School District to upgrade its community recreational program the school district may "go it alone" within the next two years.

This was the thinly-veiled threat voiced by three board members at a public meeting on the issue Jan. 16.

Both trustees Mrs. Dorothy Adams, chairwoman of the school board, and Mrs. Beverly Forrester told The Post Thursday they were now in the process of investigating complaints received in recent months concerning the use of drugs by youth, gambling and drinking alcoholic beverages at playgrounds under the supervision of recreation department-hired directors.

In one instance, Mrs. Forrester said, a school custodian called the police on the matter of a youth smoking marijuana and gambling.

The recreation supervisor at the playground was fired, the trustee said.

"What concerns me is that a custodian had to call police — instead of the playground supervisor," Mrs. Forrester said.

There have been other complaints — some concerning older boys beating up and robbing children at these sites, the two trustees said.

Charles Vincent, director of Recreation, Parks and Maintenance, for Daly City, attended the Wednesday night meeting.

He said later his office also would begin looking into the allegations.

Vincent's department puts on an extensive year-round recreational activities schedule for youths of all ages and adults.

The JESD "contributes" some $50,000 annually to the city toward financing of the program at all schools.

But District Superintendent Keith Breon, in discussing a proposal to takeover the program, said "we have an extensive (recreational) program, from a dollar point, but I'm not sure it's extensive in quality."

At this same meeting Mrs. Forrester acknowledged the city recreational department under Vincent is better equipped to provide these services, however she qualified her remarks by pointing up the fact "it might be better perhaps if someday we (JESD) sponsored this program."

Both Mrs. Forrester and Mrs. Adams feel the district could eventually — perhaps as soon as next year — carry out its own recreation schedule, and at a lower cost.

Mrs. Maxine Abe, a mother and housewife in the district, told the board Wednesday that high school-age children were pushing younger children out of the playgrounds.

"I wish these high school kids would go hang around the bowling alley or wherever they hang around and leave these small children alone," Mrs. Abe commented.

The concern voiced by the majority of trustees is that the district put up monies, but has had no input into the program.

"We simply want more say in how our dollars are spent. We want a better program," Mrs. Adams said.

Mrs. Adams said "for some time we have felt the program should be more coordinated with the needs of the children here."

Plea Date Set in Gun Case

A date of Jan. 25, at 9 a.m., has been set for South San Francisco Steven Craig Boyd to enter a plea on charges of assault with a deadly weapon.

Boyd was arrested Jan. 15 for allegedly firing one round from a 30-30 rifle at a telephone on a wall at 961 Huntington Ave., San Bruno.

He is free on $5,000 bail, officials said.

Police said Boyd, 19, of 58 Highland Ave., apparently upset because his estranged wife was in the company of another man, shot at the telephone to prevent the calling of police.

According to police, after Boyd had shot the telephone and fled the apartment, he was stopped by South San Francisco police who didn't know of the earlier incident, and was cited for not having a taillight. The same officers assisted San Bruno in the arrest at the South San Francisco residence, police said.

Looking for Fernando School? Check Edison

If you happen to be looking for Fernando Rivera Intermediate School this summer it isn't there anymore.

Tucked into a corner of Daly City's Westlake Park, the school board moved it Jan. 16, but in name only.

The four member board, following a short public hearing, shifted the facility up to Thomas Edison — books, faculty and students.

Rather than simply forgetting the person some folks blame for starting the energy crisis, the school board shifted Thomas Edison's name and student body over to Abraham Lincoln which will henceforth be called Fernando Rivera elementary school in Westlake Park.

So if you want to visit your child who is attending classes at Fernando Rivera, you may have to go to Thomas Edison which moved over to Abraham Lincoln because that school is now where Fernando Rivera was before.

Steve Boides, student body president at Fernando Rivera, said a poll of students at the school disclosed 97 per cent favored keeping the name after the faculty and students are shifted to the new, larger building.

The Wonders of a Little Persistence

By RICK SULLIVAN
All it takes is a little persistence. Sometimes it can do wonders.

At least that's what Rick Byrd discovered after hassling for three months with a South San Francisco water bed company in an attempt to secure a $52 refund for a water bed heater that just didn't fit his particular bed.

Thursday, Byrd, who said he had been told repeatedly since last October he would get his refund, just got tired of waiting.

He made a small sign, took an hour off from his job at Pyramid Van Lines, and picketed the business.

The sign simply read, "I want my refund." Well, Byrd got his refund, and according to him, it was almost immediately after two potential water bed customers asked him why he was picketing.

Here's how the whole thing started, according to Byrd:

On Oct. 24, he visited Waterbed Experience, in South San Francisco and bought a water heater for his bed, unaware it would not fit his water bed with a Fiber-glas frame.

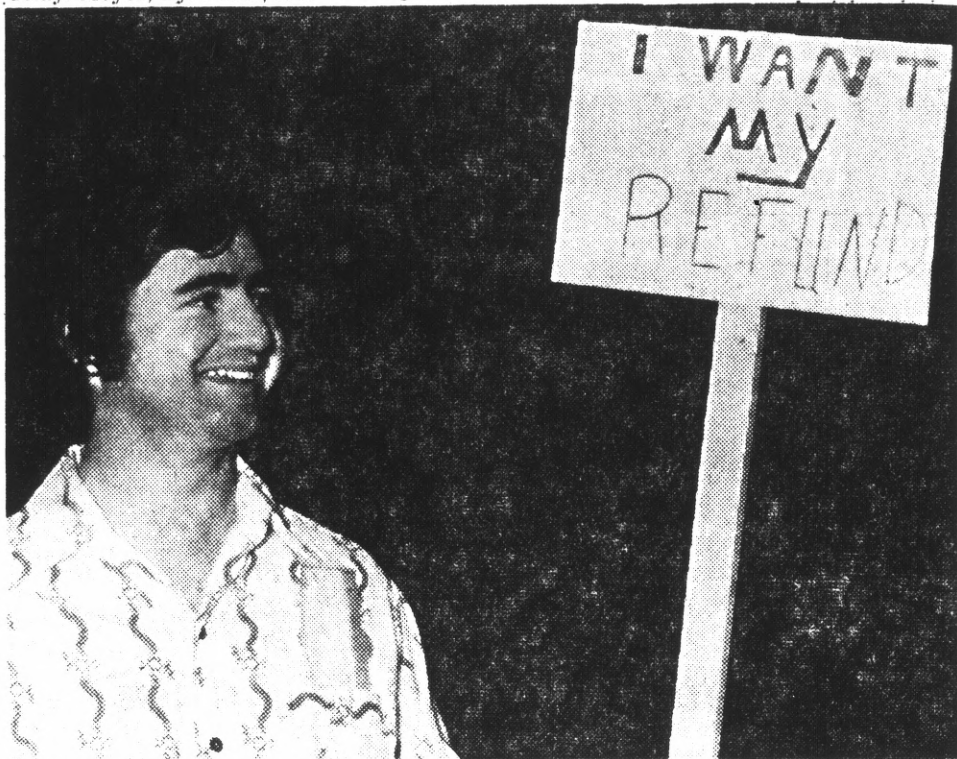

That same day he said he called the business and talked to an employee, who, Byrd said, assured him he could get a refund. But when he returned to the store, he said another person told him he would not be entitled to a refund and that he would have to talk to the manager.

On Oct. 29, Byrd said, he talked to the then manager, a Mr. Humphrey, who told him he would get the refund, but that it would take several weeks "to go through the channels." Byrd purchased the heater on a credit card.

After two weeks and no refund, Byrd again called the company, asked for Mr. Humphrey, but instead got Ed Moyer, who explained that Mr. Humphrey was no longer in the employ of Waterbed Experience. Moyer, the new manager, told Byrd he knew nothing of the refund, but after listening to Byrd's story, assured him he would get his refund in several weeks.

Byrd said he waited until around Jan. 1, and after still receiving no refund, called him his name was on a "Well, I just got tired of waiting," said Byrd, Thursday. Moyer, Byrd said, told would get his check "soon." day. "I made a sign and went out and picketed the place. And after about 15 minutes, when I think they noticed that some customers had been turned away, an employee walked up to me and told me the manager wanted to see me.

"I went to his (Moyer's) office and there he was making out the check; it was beautiful. I just said thanks and walked out," Byrd said.

Moyer explained the request for refund came in the midst of a change in management which, he said, confused the issue.

Also, he said, the company has a policy of checking all refund requests "to see if they're justified. This also takes time and slows things down considerably."

Moyer said Byrd was on a "refund list" and that he was scheduled to get his refund "in a few days."

"But when I saw him out there picketing I decided to go ahead and give him his check rather than let him stand out there in the sun all day," he stated.

Moyer said he knew of no customers who were turned away because of the picket.

Jeff District Alarm System Called 'Useless'

The burglar alarm system presently used by the Jefferson Union High School District is "practically useless," according to John Lamori, building and grounds supervisor at Westmoor High School.

"The doors are bugged, but right next to them are windows that aren't bugged," he said. "Kids break into the buildings over weekends and ride their bikes around."

"With the type of alarm we have now," Lamori added, "I would say we might as well have none at all."

The easy access to the school buildings has also attracted many thieves, according to Lamori. Loss of business, art and band equipment, running into the thousands of dollars, has led the board of trustees to investigate another kind of alarm system.

The present system is a relatively simple one. John Angle, district building and grounds coordinator, explained that the alarm only sounds when a door is enter through a window and opened. An intruder may avoid activating the alarm.

Listing of Stations Available

Gas-short Peninsula motorists who are seeking an oasis on Sundays will be able to get the name of the nearest open gas station by dialing one of two telephone numbers.

The Golden Gate chapter of Radio Emergency Associated Citizens Teams (REACT) said it is maintaining a list of gas stations that will be open Sundays, and the names will be available by phone.

REACT members are providing information on open stations to the central listing points via two-way radio and telephone, a spokesman said, and those who know of additional stations that will be open are asked to call.

Motorists seeking the names of stations that will be open from the City of San Mateo north to San Francisco and parts of Marin and the East Bay should call 755-9500.

For stations open from Redwood City through San Jose, the number is 286-1338 in San Jose. Motorists are asked to restrict their calls to 10 a.m.-10 p.m. on Sundays.

Whose Opinion in Magazine Article?

This is an article article, precisely, a study of That is, an article about a journalistic method, using the cover story of Newsweek of Jan. 21, 1974.

The title: "Inside Nixon's White House." Authors: unknown. Format: hard news. There is nothing to indicate that the text promotes the prejudices of the magazine.

The article contains opinion, but not the opinion of Newsweek, no sir! Its ace reporters should never be viewed as editorialists — they dig up hard facts.

The thrust of this small masterwork is fashioned from the guesses, offhand opinions, and gossip of persons other than the authors. Who these others are, however, will never be known. Using a device as old as slanted reporting itself, Newsweek hides behind a facade of persons whose names it does not disclose.

Thus, for example, this jewel appears: "They're gloomy, gloomy out there," reported one visitor to San Clemente. "They're sitting around blaming all their troubles on the liberal press and wondering what's going to happen next."

Newsweek didn't report these facts on its own. They use "one visitor" to do the dirty work. Who was the visitor? Ralph Nader? A Newsweek reporter? What else did the visitor say? Did the visitor say anything favorable to the White House? What did all the other visitors interviewed have to say? Answers to these questions will never be known, as ace reporters never disclose sources.

This technique is used over 40 times throughout the article. A total of eight statements or conclusions is attributed to "staffers," four to "aides," four to "colleagues," four to "one in-house assessment," and two each to "senior hand," "insiders," and "President's men." In two instances statements are connected up only by "is said," and one case by "were said," without even general class identification.

One statement or conclusion is attributed to each of the following: "visitor to San Clemente," "head counters," "some 'old Nixon hand,'" "Washington matron," "correspondent," "by all accounts," "strategists," "clients," "his people," and to the ubiquitous "word leaked."

Grand total: Forty-one. The effect of the method can be disclosed by considering two examples from the article. Ronald Ziegler is described as "a Nixonian to the cloth coat born with ... what a Washington matron once called the face of a sinful cherub." Washington, of course, is full of matrons — was this the wife of the Chief Justice, or was it Mrs. McGovern?

Newsweek thought the sobriquet good enough to use a dividing headline: "A Sinful Cherub." In the headline the allusion to "face" is missing, and for the careless reader Newsweek has called Ron Ziegler names without doing so.

Another device is that of having an unidentified source relate the declaration of a second unidentified source. Newsweek's use of the phrase "some were said to be contemplating" compounds the usage. Here the second hand unidentified hearsay relates to what someone was thinking — a journalistic feat of first magnitude.

This kind of writing should be distinguished from true investigative reporting. When the Washington Post printed its now famous Watergate revelations it related hard facts provided by undisclosed sources, and took the risk that its charges could be proven false.

The fabric from which Newsweek's editorial blast at the White House was woven is not made of such solid stuff. Conjecture, opinion, and gossip make up the story line. Even if it were never said by any Washington matron, the comment "sinful cherub" is beyond reach.

Such reporting also amounts to lopsided poll taking. How many "staffers" were interviewed, and what percentage concurred in the statements printed? What favorable comments were made? Alas, we shall never know.

Newsweek, at least as to this article, should be renamed Editorial Week. Under this imprimatur its fairness could not be attacked.

Seniors Food Plan Accepted

Acceptance of a grant agreement whereby the County Economic Opportunity Commission and the County Committee on Aging will be able to accept $221,000 in federal funds to operate feeding stations for senior citizens at four locations in the county was approved Jan. 15 by the San Mateo County Board of Supervisors.

Ironically, all four stations are in operation, using EOC funds until the agreement, which someone had forgotten to submit to the board last September, was approved.

The feeding stations are located in East Palo Alto, Redwood City, San Mateo and Daly City, providing a total of 400 free meals a day, Monday through Friday, to senior citizens.

Paul Cowgill, chairman of the County Committee on Aging, informed the board that "someone missed the boat" in bringing the matter to the attention of the supervisors last fall.

However, the EOC will be compensated from the federal funds for the meals it has already put out. The East Palo Alto, Daly City and San Mateo programs started just recently, but the Redwood City program has been in effect for more than a year, operating on EOC funds prior to institution of the federal funding.

In addition to paying for food, the funds also provide salaries for a total of 16 employees at the locations, including administrators, cooks and drivers who pick up many senior citizens in cars for transportation to the feeding stations.

EXPLAINING DECORATING IDEAS to Mrs. Peter Kireopoulos and her son Michael is Frederick C. Erickson, interior designer for Breuners, who will be on hand at the Westlake School P-TA Founders Day Program Feb. 9 at 1 p.m. in the school's multi-purpose room. The entire program, which honors the founding of the P-TA, will feature interior design. Mrs. Kireopoulos is the program chairwoman. (George Brooke Photo)

Little League Field Development Approved

The Pacifica City Council Jan. 14 approved development and improvement of its Little League ball park on a vacant Fairway Park lot.

The council previously had budgeted $15,750 from its revenue-sharing funds for the park.

City Manager Dave Thompson said the Pacifica Little League and Parks, Beaches and Recreation Commission had developed a plan for construction of a third baseball diamond, picnic area and off-street parking facilities.

The project would receive help through donations of labor and materials, according to Thompson.

Meanwhile, a temporary ad hoc committee studying a joint city-school program on improvement of school sites had its life extended a year. Councilman Stan Farber reported that the committee, which had been meeting at his home on Sunday nights, had moved into several areas of discussion.

Members include Farber and Mrs. Grace McCarthy from the City Council.

GIRL SCOUTING

"BUY Girl Scout Cookies, now" is the request of Mrs. Margaret Kachur, Girl Scout cookie chairman for the Daly City Association.

GIRL swimming for Brownies from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m., at the Jefferson High School pool is scheduled for tomorrow night (Jan. 24) according to Mrs. Bunne Pardini.

SCOUT leader's conference for Northern San Mateo County is Saturday at Capuchino High in San Bruno with workshops available on troop program and management, as well as craft instruction. Program activities for the out-of-doors, as well as troop meetings, will be stressed with registration through the Brisbane Executive Office.

COOKIES will be sold this month by troop no. 888, led by Mmes. Dolores Bedrosian, Diane Siri, Kathleen Fish and Katherine Kolinos, who recently took their girls to see "Holiday on Ice."

Sophia Alberto, Lucy Clem, Miriam Ducumos, Kathleen DeMarlo, Kimberly Evanson, Lisa Feeney, Mary Fish, Lynn Hartle, Bonnie Jefferson, Carol Kolinos, Dana Maldonado, Lisa Marino, Michele Pacquet and Kari Ratto attended.

Janet Tagawa, Denise Wawreznski, Sonia Alberto, Christina and Sara Bedrosian, Robin Booth, Leslie Capavilla, Karen Clark, Laura Clem, Myrza Ducumos, Deanna Degas and Carol DeMarlo also attended.

Sherrie Dunn, Kathy Engel, Pam Guaraglia, Sheryl Land, Tracy McLeod, Karen Norman, Marlene Prusso, Stacey Siri, Lisi Soozl and Tanya Webber enjoyed their outing.

NOW the roster of Junior troop leaders is available according to Registrar Mrs. Shirley Figone. The list includes Patrice LeBlanc, Rita Small, Joan Passanisi, Claire Curran and Joane Millane of troop no. 185.

Other Junior troops, leaders and committee chairmen include troop no. 194 of Mmes. Sue Freitas and Edythe Rankin; no. 222 of Bunne Pardini, Helen Berube and Julie Kolbmann; no. 446 of Mmes. Alan Knox, Richard Futrell, Jim Drexler and Steven Salkind; no. 476 of Mmes. Fred Stewart, Ronald Batistoni, William Whelan and Pearl Ulukou.

Troop no. 582 is led by Ruth Lapachet, Stella Smith and Yvonne Bernardo; no. 715 by Mmes. Carl Fiel, Robert Gorrebeck and Patrick Ryan; no. 738 by Mmes. James C. Scott, Bernard LaPedis and Mary Tschirgi; no. 758 by Mmes. Sally Raeta, Dolores Riggs and Roberta Kapkin; no. 858 by Mmes. Dolores Bedrosian, Diane Siri, Kathleen Fish, Katherine Kolinos and Charlette Webber; no. 1068 by Vicki Roche, Cathie Walters and Laura Gomez.

JESD to Rescind Stipends

"What the board giveth, the board may taketh away."

So said Jefferson Elementary School District Supt. Keith Breen in discussing a legal determination concerning paying Personnel Commission members a $15 per meeting stipend Jan. 16.

Payments to three JESD Commission members was cut off by the board late last year and Breen had sought legal opinion on the issue from the San Mateo County District Attorney's office.

In a Jan. 8 letter to Director of Classified Personnel George Naslund, Deputy District Attorney Thomas F. Casey III, said, "It is our opinion that the board of trustees was acting within its legal authority when it eliminated the payment of $15 per meeting to Personnel Commission members."

Personnel commissioners had argued that inasmuch as the commission had already budgeted monies for such payments for the entire fiscal year they should continue to be paid, regardless of what the school board said.

"The fact that such payments have been budgeted does not alter the situation," Casey said.

Fireworks Erupt Over SSF Proposals

Fireworks erupted Jan. 16 when two controversial proposals were presented at a study meeting of the South San Francisco City Council.

Both proposals were presented by Dick Milkovich, acting director for parks and recreation. He was backed by City Manager Ed Alario.

Milkovich recommended that the Magnolia Recreation Center be vacated by the Parks and Recreation Department and that temporary quarters be acquired to house the staff and programs until a new building could be built. The center currently houses the administrative offices of the department, the arts and crafts center and other recreation classes, plus the Chamber of Commerce.

Milkovich also proposed that a shelter be built on City Hall grounds for the retired men who spend their afternoons at City Hall Park. He said the cost of the shelter could run from $4,000 to $35,000.

Chief opposition came from members of the Parks and Recreation Commission, who attended the meeting in a body.

Frank Prendergast read a prepared statement complaining that the commission members felt slighted at not having the two matters first referred to them.

Parks and Recreation Commission President Henry vom Steeg called for a joint executive session of the two bodies, but Councilman Bill Borba insisted that all meetings be kept open. City Atty. John Noonan advised the councilmen that issues cannot be discussed in closed session.

Finally, Alario apologized for failing to refer the matter to the Park and Recreation Commission first. The proposal for a city hall shelter, he explained, was of particular interest to two councilmen who had been studying it.

Protesting any move to close the Magnolia Center was Mrs. Frank Bregante, civic chairman for the South San Francisco Women's Club.

The Magnolia Center, she declared, is "part of South San Francisco's past. This building, once removed, could never be replaced."

She proposed refurbishing it to serve as a civic auditorium, a convention center, an art cultural center and a senior citizen center.

Milkovich estimated that it would take more than $1.25 million to bring the building up to code "and then you would still have only an old school building and not an efficient, usable recreation facility."

He presented reports from the fire and building departments, which, he claimed, showed that the building contains violations which make it "extremely dangerous to life and limb."

Another major problem he cited was the lack of parking. The school district, which owns the adjacent land, will not sell it, he said.

He urged that planning begin immediately on a new complex at Orange Memorial Park, and that the land on Magnolia be sold.

Mrs. Bregante, however, claimed that Orange Park is already overbuilt and has just as bad a parking problem. She urged construction of as many as three smaller neighborhood centers, rather than one big one.

"The $35,000 proposed for the shelter could be used to provide recreation for 500 kids," declared Vom Steeg.

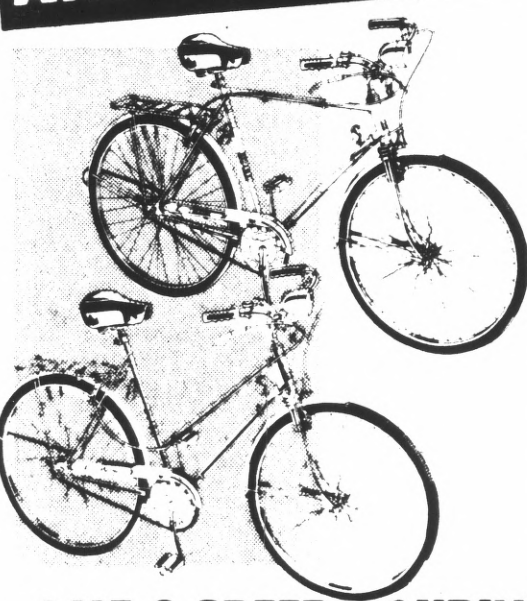

John Raschner said the Parks and Recreation Capital Improvements Committee, on which she served, last year considered the shelter its lowest priority.

NELL NORTON

Good morning, good cooks.
Years ago I heard this line, "Pity the homemaker, the minute she steps out of bed she's behind schedule — she hasn't made breakfast yet."

We really aren't so put upon as that; but fixing breakfast can be a chore at times. So some ideas that can make it a bit more interesting are a help to the cook and to the eaters.

A friend and busy homemaker in Boise, Idaho sent me this recipe for some deliciously different pancakes. Ellen Hough is a good cook and a generous recipe sharer so I'll have the pleasure of testing and later sharing some more of her recipes with you good cooks.

ELLEN'S OATMEAL GRIDDLE CAKES

- 1/2 cup flour
- 4 teaspoons baking powder
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1 1/2 cups quick cooking rolled oats (uncooked)
- 1 egg, well beaten
- 1 tablespoon salad oil
- 1 teaspoon molasses
- 3/4 cup each, water and milk

Sift the one-half cup flour, four teaspoons baking powder and one teaspoon salt into mixing bowl. Add the one and one-half cups uncooked rolled oats. Combine the one well-beaten egg, one tablespoon salad oil, one teaspoon molasses and three-fourths cup each, water and milk and add to the dry ingredients. (This makes a thin batter.) Have griddle very hot for first baking, then reduce heat. Serves four.

A great favorite in my family for breakfast or for a light supper are these corn fritters. Nutritious and delicious describes them nicely.

PANCAKE CORN FRITTERS

- 1 egg
- 1/4 cup milk
- 1 cup pancake mix
- 1 can (12-oz.) whole kernel corn, drained

Blend the egg and fourth cup milk together. Stir in the one cup pancake mix and drained 12 ounces corn. (Fluffy fritters call for a light hand, so mix just until well moistened.) Drop by teaspoonful into hot oil, one-inch deep, and cook slowly until golden brown, about four minutes. Makes 20 to 24 fritters. Serve hot with plenty of syrup.

Last week's recipe for clam chowder had an error in the list of ingredients. The correct amount of pepper needed is (1/8) one-eighth teaspoon. It's been my experience that it is helpful to my readers to repeat the whole recipe when a correction is printed. So here it is.

FRAN'S CLAM CHOWDER

- 2 slices bacon, cut fine
- 1 small onion, chopped
- 2 cups cubed potatoes
- 2 cups water
- 1 can minced clams (7 1/2-oz.)
- 1 tablespoon butter
- 2 tablespoons flour
- 2 cups milk
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1/8 teaspoon pepper
- 3 soda crackers, crushed

Cut the two slices bacon into small pieces, place in large saucepan along with the one chopped onion. Cook, stirring occasionally, until the onion is golden brown. Add the two cups diced potatoes, two cups water and liquid from clams. Simmer until potatoes are tender.

In medium saucepan melt the one tablespoon butter, blend in the two tablespoons flour. Add the two cups milk, one teaspoon salt and one-eighth teaspoon pepper. Stir to mix and cook over medium heat for 5 minutes, stirring occasionally.

Combine the milk and potato mixtures, add the drained clams and cook 5 minutes more. Crush the three soda crackers into the chowder. Stir and serve. Serves four.

THE FOUR recently elected officers of the Westlake Merchants Association are pictured from left. Don Davis of Penneys, vice president; Edwin Speer of Grants, president; Georgette Colhour of Georgette's Salon, treasurer; Harry Loew of Mr. H. Luggage, secretary. Elected to the board of directors at a recent association meeting were: Arthur Coleman, Arthur's For Men; Sally Lowy, The Fashion; Jerry Orloff, Seymour's Paints; Michael Plyer, Westlake Delicatessen; Norman Rosenberg, King Norman's Toys; Walter Tranchina, Walgreens; Maurice Wahba, Westlake Development Co., Inc. The new officers and directors will direct activities of the Westlake Merchants Association for the coming year.

CSM Plans Flight Course

College of San Mateo will offer a Boeing 707 flight engineer course for the first time during spring semester.

Class meetings are scheduled weekly on Tuesday, 7-10 p.m., in building 19, room 107, beginning Feb. 5.

The teacher will be Raymond D. Cloutier, member of the training staff at Sierra Academy of Aeronautics, Oakland. A Boeing 707 specialist, Cloutier also has been a simulator instructor for Pan American World Airways. Earlier phases of his career in aviation included crop dusting, Korean War bomber service and providing flights instruction to such notables as Maharishi Mahesh Yogi.

His CSM course will cover such 707 topics as jet engines, fuel systems, electrical systems, pneumatics, pressurization, ice and rain protection, hydraulic systems, flight controls, and duties and procedures of flight engineers and pilots.

Further details may be obtained at the college information center; the phone number is 574-6544.

A Gaze At the Stars

"Intelligent Life in the Universe," a new astronomy course, will be offered at College of San Mateo during spring semester.

Beginning Feb. 5, class meetings will be held weekly on Tuesdays, 7-10 p.m., in campus building 11, room 131.

The course, open to any adult resident of San Mateo County, will include discussions with scientists who are searching for extraterrestrial life, special programs on space exploration, field trips and directed study on topics selected by students. Carina Parvulesco will be the instructor.

Further details may be obtained by contacting the college information center, 575-6544.

DC Band Sets Disneyland Trip

The Westmoor Marching Band of Daly City has been selected to march down "Main Street" at Disneyland April 20.

This band has won wide acclaim this year with a first place trophy in the Broadmoor Community parade and a trophy for best band in the BART Parade. They also won an "achievement" trophy in this parade. Leading the parade and entertaining while the parade was stopped for the dedication ceremonies at the 24th Street station, the band was filmed and was seen on local and national television.

Former Daly City residents reported seeing the band on TV coverage of the BART parade as far away as Washington, D.C. and West Virginia.

The Westmoor Marching Band was selected to represent the Daly City Lions Club in their international convention parade July 3 in San Francisco.

Before the band went to the public for help in financing this trip to Disneyland, they pledged to contribute at least $1000 of the cost by themselves and they are making daily contributions from their allowances as well as organizing car washes and shows.

Financing the cost of this trip is being arranged only for members of the marching band. All adult chaperones will pay their own way. The cost of this trip will be about $3600.

Contributions can be made to Westmoor High School and mailed to the Westmoor Marching Band at 131 Westmoor Ave. in Daly City.

For details call the school at 756-3434.

Some Can Inherit Tolerance

The Alcoholic Pre-destination

By JOYE OGRODOWSKI

SECOND IN A SERIES

From the time a person is born, he inherits the ability to handle alcohol; or, he is predestined to have trouble with it.

Dan Melarkey, counselor at Raleigh Hills Hospital in Redwood City, lecturing at the Thursday night session of "Alcoholism, a Community Concern," said, "This means you either inherit a tolerance, or you don't."

"For the sake of comparison, 99 per cent of the world's population experiment with alcohol for a few years, until they reach their drinking pattern."

"It may be an after work drink, or drinking just at parties," he explained. "They can take booze or leave it alone. It doesn't become the one thing they think about 24 hours a day."

These people continue on for the rest of their lives and never have a problem with alcohol. The other one per cent belong to the predestermined set, and "somewhere along the line, they are not going to be able to handle it," Melarkey said.

"THEY MAY go on for years. When they reach their thirties, they may find that they are having a difficult time with alcohol."

"They start out having to drink more, missing work, drinking in the mornings, blacking out, (amnesia)" he said.

In the 35-45 year-old age bracket, coincidental with menopause, the ability to handle alcohol becomes noticeably altered.

"They find themselves drinking small quantities of alcohol more frequently," Melarkey said.

"You don't want to drink too much because you might wake up in the withdrawal period."

"You get into hiding bottles. Whenever you find yourself slipping toward the withdrawal stage, you want to have a drink close at hand."

A "TOXIC RUN" is the terminology used to describe the period in which alcohol starts to affect the liver, heart and brain.

"There is a point in time when all you have to do is quit drinking and the damage being done will turn around," Melarkey said.

"Fatty deposits form around the liver. The heart becomes enlarged with excessive drinking, probably the greatest contributor to death in people who drink too much."

"It's like pulling a balloon apart. The muscles and blood vessels rupture," he explained.

"Alcohol is an anesthetic and when you drink a lot it affects the memory bank. You reach a point in time when you can no longer receive information to this section of the brain. Motor areas are affected; speech defects; the inability to walk," he said.

"This is the area of alcohol addiction, a physiological disease when a person is unable to metabolize alcohol. It just can't go through your system like it should."

Raleigh Hills Hospital deals exclusively in the treatment of alcohol addiction, and, according to Melarkey, "the hardest part of putting any kind of program together is to convince the patients that their days with booze are gone. The first big plus is for them to admit their problem."

"Once they reach the end of the spectrum of alcohol addiction," he said, "the damage is irreversible and they can never become social drinkers again."

"You can be off drinking for 10, 20, 30 years, and if you take just one drink, it's curtains."

This is a difficult point to put across to the patient in a hospital. "I went through this same hospital in 1967," Melarkey explained, "and they presented the same things to me then as we are presenting to the patients we have now."

"In 1972, I was working for Walt Disney in Florida. After five years of not drinking, I said, 'I might as well build up my resistance.' It started with a beer and two weeks later I was right back in the hospital."

"EVERY SINGLE person who 'slips' does it premeditatedly. You start steamrolling and before you know it, you're at the bottom of the barrel."

minimizes the chance of them going into DTs or convulsions."

Patients are given two intravenous feedings in the first three days, a sugar solution mixed with tranquilizers, according to Melarkey.

THEY ARE given a series of five conditioned reflex treatments while inpatients at the hospital. "We take them into a treatment room, set up just like a clinical bar; every brand of booze, every type of booze, every everything," he said.

"The nurse who administers each 20-minute treatment, gives a muscular injection, an emetic, a combination of two drugs which produce nausea."

The patient is then given a 2-ounce shot of whatever he drinks. He is instructed to sniff it, swish a third of it around in his mouth, and then swallow it. The same for the remainder of the shot.

"Then, more booze," Melarkey said. "Eventually, whatever goes down, comes up. The emetic guarantees this, yet the booze is not absorbed in the stomach."

"The treatments get a lot more severe as you move along. If you just call it quits here, whatever you have built up to this point will disintegrate pretty fast," he said.

Detoxification takes three to five days. Within this time, we can get the monkey off anybody's back."

AFTER 12-14 days in the hospital, the patient goes

Seven Out of Ten Persons Taking Treatment Make It

Seven out of every 10 people who undergo treatment at Raleigh Hills, make it. "The others don't make it," he said, "at least the first time around."

He added that, of the 30 per cent who do not respond to treatment, about 10 per cent come back to try again.

There are several types of alcohol treatment, but Raleigh Hills has only one: conditioned reflex therapy.

Ivan Pavlov, a Russian physiologist around the turn of the century, made dramatic discoveries by building like and dislike through conditioning.

"Around 1938-39, four doctors reviewed Pavlov's work," Melarkey explained, "and put together a medical program aimed at the person hooked on alcohol to build up a physical and mental aversion to alcohol, sometimes referred to as aversion therapy."

Raleigh Hills has adopted this kind of program, and it seems to work 70 per cent of the time. "First thing," Melarkey said, "we do not cut the patients off from alcohol. They get 1 1/2 ounces every hour. This is cut down day by day, taking them off very slowly. This home, only to come back again two weeks later. "The patient comes in at 7 p.m., stays the night, and in the morning goes through the equivalent of the third conditioned reflex treatment," he said.

He continued: "Then he goes home. Altogether, he will return for reinforcement treatment seven times during the year: at four-week, six, eight, ten, and twelve-week." "If we feel a person needs more, we will encourage them to extend beyond a year."

Raleigh Hills receives no federal funding. "It is 100 per cent private and we are not in the business to turn out failures," Melarkey said.

Because there is no outside aid, the program is not free. "The cost will have a range to it because there are some people who sober up, cold turkey, then come in for treatment," Melarkey explained.

"Basically, the charge is anywhere from $1,500 to $2,000, for the person who comes in real bad shape and needs a lot of work."

In justification of the seemingly high cost of the program, he said, "when I was drinking, it was a quart of bourbon and a six-pack of beer per day, or about $2,316 per year," indicating that the person consuming similar amounts of alcohol could save that much money annually, in the long run.

"THE NATIONAL average of a day in the hospital is $146," he said. "If you take our 21 days hospital and divide it into the maximum cost, it comes out to $95, including everything: doctors, medication."

"One thing people like me need is to be hit in the pocketbook. When you are paying your own way through, it's very significant," he said. "To the people who bring us a check every month, it's like a life insurance policy."

He said most health insurance covers at least 80 per cent of the hospitalization. At the same time, he made mention of Assembly Bill 2400, which would require all health and disability insurance policies to include coverage for the treatment of alcoholism and extends the definition of "hospital" to include approved detoxification centers. The bill, however, has not yet been passed into law.

THERE ARE other areas where the alcoholic can get help, if he wants it. Melarkey explained that, "Alcoholics Anonymous gives the person who has an alcohol problem the most help. I think they are most successful with the person who still has the ability to handle alcohol, but who finds that he is fooling around with it too much."

"Their chances of working with the person who has gone further are slim. Something like AA makes no sense to this person."

The psychiatrist is looked to by masses of people for peace of mind, but according to Melarkey, "they do more harm to the person hooked on alcohol than to any other group. They just don't understand these people."

He explained, "What happens when you get to the problem drinking area is you will start asking yourself why you are drinking. You will settle on one or two problems that are making you drink. It's not the problem; you got yourself hooked and you make up the problem to justify the drinking."

"The psychiatrist is trained to handle 'valid' emotional problems," he said. "But, he can't solve your fabricated ones."

Melarkey's lecture was over, and Larry Lahaderne, Adult Probation Officer and instructor of the course, took over where the counselor left off in describing other community resources.

"THIS IS only one of the many programs in the area," he said. "Another was coordinated by Dr. Charles Faltz. He began with a group of people who he ran through our program. A second group went through no program at all, and a third went through a behavior modification program."

Louanne Heath

Mrs. Jean Reagh, public relations officer for the San Francisco Bay Girl Scouts since the district was formed, more than 10 years ago, will be the guest of honor at a retirement tea to be held Friday afternoon.

A newspaper woman whose career has taken her to Kansas City, Los Angeles and San Francisco, worked for seven years as a volunteer Scouter before joining the official family of Girl Scouts in this area.

Present and former Scouting associates will wish her well as she leaves to take up a less demanding career as a freelance writer and "full time grandmother" who is looking forward, with a good deal of relish, to seeing more of her six grandchildren.

Miss Margaret McClellan is in charge of the arrangements for the tea which will begin at 2 p.m. in the board room of Girl Scout Headquarters in Brisbane.

SLIGHTLY earlier in the day, to be specific, at 10:30 a.m., members of the Oary's Help Hospital Guild who are a part of the tray favor committee will gather in the hospital's solarium to begin working on favors for February, Washington's birthday, Lincoln's birthday and Valentine's Day will provide committeewomen with a variety of themes.

Following the workshop there will be a general meeting of the membership. Guild workers are asked to arrive at 12:30 p.m. for the luncheon and meeting. Guest speaker will be Harry O. Bain of P.G. and E.

TO HELP defray the cost of a new boiler for St. John's Ursuline High School the Parent's Guild has voted to hold a "Boiler Hop" Feb. 2, in the school's auditorium, 4056 Mission St.

The evening will get underway with a no-host cocktail hour at 8 p.m. Dancing, to the music of Rene Serieri, will begin at 9 p.m. A buffet supper will be held at midnight.

Tickets, costing $8 per couple, may be ordered by calling Joseph Solis, 586-6542, or Sister Maura, OSU, 586-6333. Deadline for reservations is Jan. 28, according to Mrs. Edward Alvers, publicity chairman.

ROBERT KEARNEY, the Daly City Librarian in charge of Technical and Audio-Visual services, will be the guest speaker at the Friends of the Library meeting to be held Thursday at 7:30 p.m. in the Coral room of the Westlake Branch of the Daly City Library.

Kearney, who is considered an expert at appraising old books and records, has been an advisor to the committee in charge of the Friends of the Library Book Fair. For his presentation tomorrow evening he will screen a film he made in Egypt and provide an appropriate background of music from his personally collected library of Middle Eastern music.

Mrs. Hubert Sandefur is the program chairman. Mrs. Lloyd Wilson, Elvera Sunnell and Mrs. Klaus Tschornig are in charge of the social hour.

Mrs. Emmett Tierney, president of the Friends of the Library, reminds the community at large that all meetings are open to the public and guests need not make prior arrangements to attend any function sponsored by the Friends of the Library.

LADIES who are planning to attend "Venetian Holiday," the twentieth annual fashion show and luncheon to be sponsored by the Westlake Catholic Women, will be pleased to learn that special parking arrangements have been made available for the day.

Mrs. William Schou, publicity chairman, reports that the management of the Masonic Hall garage, on California Street, have agreed to allow all day parking for only $2.50 to anyone identifying herself as a guest of the Westlake Catholic Women.

Tickets for the show are being sold for $6.50 per person. Mrs. A. J. Phillips or Mrs. Harry Kanelopoulos will be happy to fill your ticket orders promptly.

No-host cocktails will be available at 11 a.m. with luncheon scheduled to be served in the Grand Ballroom of the Fairmont hotel at noon.

Mrs. Peter Balestrieri, chairwoman, has been working for many months to arrange a delightful day and she is promising many special surprises for all the guests.

REPORTS of terrible weather and unbelievable gas shortages in Oregon come from Mr. and Mrs. John Madrosen of Westlake.

The Madrosens, who flew north to attend a wedding, were appalled by the two hour lines at gas stations and the stringent volunteer rationing program in effect in Oregon.

Skyline Plans Open Recreation

Open Recreation, a Skyline College Community Services program, will begin Feb. 4 from 7 to 10 p.m. in the college gymnasium.

Norm Friedberg, Skyline's physical education instructor, will be on hand to advise and direct interested participants in several fitness activities.

Members of the community of all ages are welcome to participate in badminton, volleyball, basketball and weight training, however, children under 13 years of age must be accompanied by an adult.

The physical education facilities will be open every Monday night during the 1974 Spring semester. Participants are requested to provide their own towels, locks and uniforms.

New President Of Cow Palace Is Named

Joseph G. Moore, a Cow Palace director since 1966 and vice president for the past two years, has been elected president of the board of directors, succeeding George N. Keyton Jr., who assumes the vice presidency.

As Cow Palace president, Moore heads the No. 1-A District Agricultural Association, official name of the state-owned facility which is located on the San Francisco-San Mateo county line. Among his chief responsibilities will be supervision of the Grand National Livestock Exposition, Horse Show and Rodeo, the annual 10-day event for which the Cow Palace was originally built.

A semester's pass is $5 for adults and $2.50 for students and children.

Application blanks on Community Services brochures are located in libraries throughout north San Mateo County. One also may register in person at the theater box office between 10 a.m. and 2 p.m. weekdays.

For information call 355-7000, extension 234.

Home Health Aid Class Set

Persons who are interested in learning new job entry skills in the medical field are encouraged to sign up for a home health aid course which began Jan. 21, in the Jefferson Adult Division.

The course requires 120 hours of instruction, and students will meet from 1 to 4 p.m. at Jefferson High School each day. Clinical experience, which is required for the California State certificate, is gained at the Villa Sanitarium in Colma. Students who successfully complete the course will learn skills in caring for convalescent, chronically ill, or aged persons.

For more information regarding this class, call 359-0497 or the Adult Division at 756-8558.

Health for People

By Kevin Davis and Carmen Olivares

The following is a continuation of an excerpt from a speech by Clifford Allen, Assistant Director for the Bureau of Health Education Manpower, H.E.W., given to the Health Professions Council of California.

NATIONAL HEALTH STRATEGY

Feb. 18, 1971 the President sent a message to Congress which will be regarded as a benchmark for National health care for many years to come. In essence another inalienable right for every citizen was defined — quality health care at a reasonable cost. The goal of quality health care was to be pursued for all — regardless of economic status, regardless of classification by sex or race or occupation or ethnic background, regardless of geographic happenstance of residence. That message also stated that there were many facets to the system — and that, while each of the entities could and should receive additional attention, the primary focus for change should now be directed toward "the system."

CHMT ACT OF 1971

The message outlined several aspects of a national health strategy. Now we all know that any national strategy will be developed and implemented in the real world of politics — the administration proposes and the Congress disposes. The foundation upon which the National health strategy will be built is a major manpower production effort. The Comprehensive Health Manpower Training Act of 1971 — the major authorizing legislation under which our Bureau operates — is an initial building block. It defines a creative new partnership between the Federal government and the institutions training professional health manpower. There are carrots proffered to entice the enthusiastic and some sticks available to nudge the recalcitrant.

Financial distress grants are available for the short term, but cost allocation studies and ensuing reforms are inevitable. Enticements are written into the law to encourage students to enter family practice over specialty practice. A mandate has been given to the institutions to include more women, more applicants from low-economic backgrounds and more representation of the nation's ethnic and racial minorities in their student population.

Loan forgiveness is available to the young professional willing to locate in an underserved area. New money is available to train assistants to the primary care physician and dentist. The Comprehensive Health Manpower Training Act is not a massive change in "the system" but it does give the system a number of forceful nudges.

TWO ADDITIONAL MAJOR STEPS

Two major building blocks of a national health strategy are under current legislative consideration — a national health insurance program and organized units for delivery of care, most commonly called health maintenance organizations, or HMO's, and together these constitute an attack on the three economic factors discussed earlier.

Lo siguiente es la continuacion de una presentacion dada por Clifford Allen, Asistente al Director del Bureau of Health Education Manpower, H.E.W., al Health Professions Council of California.

ESTRATEGIA DE SALUD NACIONAL

El 18 de Febrero de 1971 el Presidente de la Republica mando un mensaje al Congreso el cual sera considerado por muchos anos en adelante como una marca distintiva en el campo de cuidado de salud nacional. Es decir, otro derecho del ciudadano fue definido — el cuidado de salud de buena calidad a un precio razonable. La meta de cuidado de salud de buena calidad tendria que ser procurada para todos — sin tomar en cuenta estado economico, clasificacion por sexo, raza, profesion o historia etnica, ni tampoco zona geografica de residencia.

Ese mensaje tambien concedia que el sistema consiste de diferentes areas — pero, aunque cada una de estas areas podria y tendria que recibir mas atencion, el foco principal de cambio tendria que ser dirigido hacia "el sistema."

EL ACTO CHMT DE 1971

El mensaje delinea diferentes aspectos de una estrategia de salud nacional. Ahora, todos sabemos que cualquier estrategia nacional va a ser desarrollada y llevada a cabo en el mundo de la politica — la Administracion propone y el Congreso dispone. La fundacion sobre la cual la estrategia nacional de salud sera construida tiene que ser un esfuerzo sobresaliente de la produccion de mano de obra.

El Acto Comprensivo Para Entrenar La Mano de Obra en Salubridad (CHMT) — el acto mayor de autorizacion legislativa debajo del que nuestro departamento funciona — es un paso inicial. Este acto define una asociacion imaginativa entre el gobierno Federal y las instituciones que entrenan la mano de obra profesional en el campo de salud. Hay zanaforias que se ponen para inducir a los entusiastas y algunos palos para darles un ligero empujon a los que estan obstinados en la resistencia. Becas de ayuda economica estan disponibles por un termino corto, pero estudios de distribucion financiera y otras reformas son inevitables.

Inducimientos han sido escritos en la ley para animar estudiantes a que entren en practica de familia en vez de practica especializada. Una orden ha sido dada a las instituciones para que incluyan mujeres, mas aplicantes pobres, y mas representacion de las minorias etnicas de la nacion en su poblacion estudiantil. Para el joven profesional que este inclinado a localizarse en una region poco servida, esta la atraccion de poder liquidar sus deudas por prestamos.

Dinero adicional esta disponible para entrenar asistentes a medicos y dentistas de cuidado primario. El Acto Comprensivo Para Entrenar La Mano de Obra en Salubridad no es un cambio drastico en "el sistema," pero, siguiera le da a este unos fuertes empujones.

DOS PASOS ADICIONALES DE IMPORTANCIA

Dos grandes adelantos en la estrategia de salud nacional estan bajo consideracion legislativa al corriente — un programa nacional de seguro de salud y unidades organizadas para la rendicion de cuidado, mas comunmente llamadas organizaciones de mantenimiento de salud (HMO's). Juntos estos constituyen un ataque a los tres factores economicos que mencionamos anteriormente.

Buckley is Named County Librarian

James W. Buckley, assistant county librarian in Orange County, has been appointed San Mateo County librarian to succeed Virginia Ross Geller, who is retiring this month after 30 years of county service.

Buckley, 41, was named to the $22,308-a-year post Thursday by the San Mateo County Board of Supervisors. He will assume his duties Feb. 25.

Buckley, who has been employed in the Orange County and Los Angeles County library systems since 1961, holds two master's degrees from University of Southern California, one in library science and the other in public administration. He also is a graduate of the Long Beach State University, with a bachelor of arts degree in English literature.

In his position with Orange County, Buckley is director of public services for the county library system, which includes 25 branches and extension services with an annual budget of $2.7 million.

As San Mateo County librarian, he will enter with a budget of $2.9 million, an annual book circulation of 1.3 million and 14 branch libraries.

Buckley is married, and he and his wife have two children, a daughter, 7, and a son, 10 months.

North County Swim Team Tryouts Set

North Peninsula Swim Team is now holding tryouts for its new competition swim team.

Any boy or girl between the ages of 4-17 years with the ability to swim 25 yards is eligible.

The team practices at South San Francisco High School Monday through Friday between 5 p.m. and 7 p.m.

The team offers instruction leading to swim meets.

The team is open to all young residents of the North County.

Frank Johnson coaches the swim team.

Red Cross Plans Expectant Parents Class

A free five-session course for expectant parents will be held on Tuesdays from 7:30-9:30 p.m., beginning Jan. 29 at the South San Francisco Red Cross office, 803 1/2 Linden Ave.

Designed to remove some concerns and worries about caring for a newborn baby, the course is open to all expectant parents, those planning adoption and expectant grandparents who would like to refresh their baby caring skills. The purpose is to help parents become more secure and independent in making decisions concerning themselves and their baby, a spokesman said.

Couples will receive instruction and participate in practical demonstrations. This "how to" course included feeding, diapering, bathing baby, selection of layette and supplies, birth and delivery. The course will be taught by a nurse volunteer.

Important Factors to Consider

Check That New Home Thoroughly Before Buying

By LORENE BEASLEY
Editor, B&B Barometer

Many home buyers look for an older home in preference to building or buying a new house.

The older house may have an old-fashioned charm and spaciousness, closet space and an attic and basement which are missing in most modern construction today. However, there are important factors to consider seriously before buying that older house. There is no perfect house so don't wait for trouble. Look for it before you are shocked after you move in.

Check inside the attic for water stains and discolorations from a leaky roof and gutters. Check what kind of roofing material was used and how old it is. Ask the owner for a guarantee if one for the roof still exists.

Ask if the attic and the space between interior and exterior walls have been insulated. Again, check what material was used and how it was installed? Does the attic have the storage area you want?

How about that basement you may be planning to make into a rumpus room? A basement that looks dry in the summer may be four inches under water in the spring. Are there signs around the foundation walls of water penetration?

What is the condition of the outside paint and the paint and wallpaper inside? Do all the windows and doors work, and are they in good condition paintwise? Does the fireplace have a workable damper?

Faulty plumbing. We missed buying a beautiful home with five baths because our presence rushed another person into signing on the dotted line. Later we learned that all five bathrooms had faulty plumbing.

Choose a home that is connected to a public sewer system in preference to one served by a septic tank. Check with the plumber who last serviced the house to determine the condition of the plumbing. Ask him to test for water pressure. Inspect floor and wall tile and fixtures in the bathroom. Inadequate wiring is the cause of many bad fires. Request an inspection by the local government official for code compliance to make sure there is no exposed wiring. There must be sufficient amperage for electric stoves, washers and dryers. How about electric outlets?

The water heater should be checked for signs of rust or leaks. Obtain any guarantee held by the present owner if it is still in effect. What is the type and capacity of the water heater? Will it supply sufficient water for family needs?

Is the heating plant adequate for the size of the house? What is the general condition and if it is run-down, what repairs are needed?

The termite clause in a house sale varies with individuals. The importance of a check by a termite specialist cannot be overemphasized, particularly in areas of the country that have a history of infestation.

Guitar, Castanets Mark Local Flamenco Concert

Brisbane resident, Roberto Salas, is director of "Los Tarantos," a company of professional and versatile dancers, singers and musicians which will perform Jan. 25 at 7:30 p.m. in the Lipman School auditorium.

There is no admission charge. The program is sponsored by the Brisbane Library and the Brisbane Recreation Department, and free tickets are available at the local library, 245 Visitation Ave.

Flamenco, Spanish classical and regional dances are accompanied by guitar, castanets, tambourines, singing, poetry and a full wardrobe of traditional costumes.

Salas, dancer, guitarist and singer, was a member of Theatre Flamenco. He danced as guest artist with the San Jose Symphony, the Seattle Symphony and the West Valley Ballet. A guest dancer for Valva Bovie Classical School of Ballet, he studied in Spain with some of the finest Flamenco dancers.

Other members of Los Tarantos include Juan Carlos and Roberto Zamora, the newest member of the group. Formerly with Los Flamencos de la Bronce, Zamora danced in many clubs in this state as well as Sevilla Gardens.

Flamenco guitarist, Juan Carlos was born in San Francisco. He studied with Mariano de Cordoba, in San Francisco and with renowned artists in Mexico

Three Stooges

The Three Stooges, one fat, dumb and completely bald, one bossing everybody around while wearing a Buster Brown haircut, and one with a ball of hair behind each ear — who does not like the Three Stooges with their eye gouging and nose twisting in the name of fun?

Few children who watch the antics of the Three Stooges realize that the pictures were shot some 40 years ago — few know that the pictures were called shorts and were used to provide variety for movie house programs and were advertised on the marquees right along with the features.

The Three Stooges — there were four — were all of one family, the Howards. Moe with the Buster Brown and Larry with the hair puffs started the act in 1922 as assistants to one Ted Healy with whom they parted when their brother, Sam, joined them as Shemp. Three years later Shemp decided to work as a single so younger brother Jerry joined the team as Curly. Curly died in 1946, and Shemp returned and worked with his brothers until he died in 1956.

Now Moe lives in Hollywood on the Sunset Strip with his wife who is a cousin of the famous magician, Houdini, while Larry is a widower living in the Motion Picture Country House. Both are delighted with the knowledge that their pictures are played in almost every country of the world, but not in Russia where the Soviets planned to use them to show Americans being brutalized.

The story of the Three Stooges is part of Richard Lamparski's book "Whatever Became Of . . . ?". Remember Jimmy Cagney whose gangster act is still, after 25 years, being aped by every mimic in the United States?

Today he is a gentleman farmer who finds time to paint and to tutor young actors.

THEN THERE was Kay Kyser and his College of Musical Knowledge. During World War II his band delighted a "keyed up" nation with songs like "Praise The Lord and Pass the Ammunition" and "Who Wouldn't Love You." Today Kay and his wife, songstress Georgia Carroll, live in a 155 year old house in Chapel Hill, North Carolina. Kay is a teacher and practitioner of Christian Science. He turns down interviews and lucrative offers to return to TV with the same reply — "Those were wonderful years but they are long over."

Ken Maynard, the sagebrush hero of both silent and sound westerns, lives alone in a ram-shackle trailer filled with dusty mementos of his years of glory. Now, as always, he has a problem with alcohol. But time was when Ken was "The World's Champion Cowboy" and before that the star of the Ringling Brothers Wild West Show.

Jack Armstrong — the All American Boy, Rochester, Captain Video, Our Gal Sunday, Les Paul and Mary Ford, Vaughn Monroe and many others are part of "Whatever Became Of . . . ?" which is a series now in its fourth volume. It's a series worth reading. The Chicago Tribune said, "Anyone with an ounce of nostalgia in his makeup will be delighted." T.V. Radio Mirror urged "that you read all of the Whatever Became Of . . . ? books. The only word for them is — grand."

Daly City Mormons Planning Open House

The Daly City and Balboa Wards of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, commonly known as the Mormon Church, have scheduled a special open house at their Daly City chapel.

Entitled "Meet the Mormons," the evening will show the role the organizations of the church play in the development of the individual as well as the family.

The open house will begin at 7:30 p.m. Jan. 25 at the Latter-day Saints' chapel at Hillside and Brunswick Streets in Daly City. The public is invited to attend.

Guests will have the opportunity to ask questions they might have concerning the beliefs of the church.

Any additional information concerning the open house may be obtained by calling 992-1755 or 585-3147.

Nursing Class May Be Offered

Persons who wish to be trained as nursing assistants for jobs in hospitals and clinics should call the Jefferson Adult Division's office at 755-8558 to register by telephone. If sufficient enrollments warrant, the class will start March 15.

Students who enroll for this class should expect to receive 180 hours of classroom and clinical experience prior to receiving a certificate from the State of California.

The prerequisites for this class are 18 years of age, ability to read and write, and a desire to give personal care to a variety of persons.

Proposed Addition of I&R Secretary Spurs Questions

A request for addition of a bilingual secretary to the staff of the South San Francisco Information and Referral Center brought some sharp questioning from City Councilman Bill Borba at a meeting Jan. 16.

The secretary would free workers presently involved in necessary paper work at the center, he explained.

The new secretary would not cost the city any money. Administrative Aide Mike Wilson told the City Council in its study session. The secretary would be hired under the Emergency Employment Program and would be assigned to work at the center. The federal government would reimburse the city.

Borba expressed concern over who the center was serving, and was not satisfied with assurances that those served by the center were all South San Franciscans. He pointed out that while South San Francisco was giving $35,000 to the program, San Bruno was not contributing a dime. Borba then asked Center Director Louis Morrill to identify those people using Center services.

Morrill refused to divulge the names of those being helped. He explained that he was advised by the Economic Opportunities Commission that it "would be a no-no" to do so.

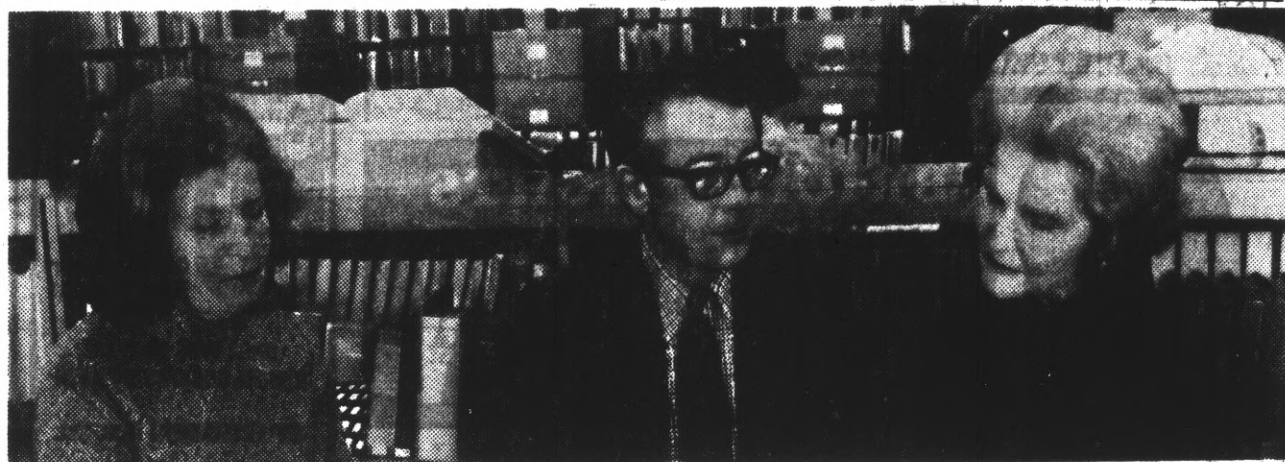

"Under the law, these names are confidential," he declared.

Borba replied that as a public official, representing the body funding the program, he had a right to see the names.

When Borba moved to hold off the request for further discussion, Morrill replied that he had a Feb. 7 deadline in order to obtain Title 7 help in conjunction with a program of the South San Francisco Unified School District. The center must be able to draw up a "needs assessment," he said.

Mayor Warren Steinkamp assured him the request will be considered Jan. 21.

ROBERT KEARNEY, Daly City librarian in charge of technical services for the Daly City public libraries, shows Mrs. Hubert Sandefur (right), program chairman, and Mrs. Emmett Tierney, president, souvenirs of his trip to Egypt early in 1973. He will display the souvenirs when he shows a film he took on the trip to The Friends of the Daly City Library and their guests at their general meeting Jan. 24, at 7:30 p.m. in the Coral Room of the Westlake Branch public library. Kearney also collected records for taped background music for the film.

Bail Still

$100,000

A judge Friday refused to lower $100,000 cash bails for three men charged with a variety of crimes stemming from an alleged robbery in South San Francisco and shootout with Daly City police last Dec. 6.

The denial by Superior Court Judge Gerald E. Ragan came after the defendants each pleaded not guilty. They are Homer Hayes, 49, of Hayward, Paul Arnold, 47, of South San Francisco, and Carroll Mack Leard 52, of San Francisco.

Judge Hagan set the trial for March 4, and a pretrial hearing for Feb. 15.

Police said they became engaged in a 100-mile-per-hour gun battle with the alleged bandits in South San Francisco and Daly City.

Police said the incident began when the trio allegedly held up the 57 Club in South San Francisco of $200. Hayes, in the gunfire, was wounded in the arm and leg.

Her Excellency, who is wearing a traditional New Zealand native Maori costume, visited here recently with union officials to learn the funding and building techniques of recreation resorts.

Palo Alto Shirt Tail Built for Comfort

Adrian Stickney built his Shirt Tail with comfort in mind. The showplace restaurant in Palo Alto is a marvel of taste and relaxation. A massive wooden door admits diners into a carpeted foyer. A large fireplace is surrounded by plush, plaid chairs. Tables are well-spaced for comfort. Original oil paintings, French Baroque mirrors, beamed ceilings and rock walls blend into an appealing, visually-rich decor. Put Vince's Italian and Seafood restaurant on your calendar as a must to visit for cocktails and a fine meal. Luncheon and dinner served daily, with a menu suggesting Italian specialties and seafood variety. From 5:30 p.m. to 8:30 p.m. you can enjoy hors d'oeuvres in the lounge. As for fresh seafood to take out, try the next door Fish Depot. Besides the usual good food and family atmosphere found at each of the nine different restaurants of Tanforan Park's Garden Restaurants, General Manager Jack Kuks has several special promotions planned for the future. Last year it was automobiles and free trips. This year, who knows!

Skylark Restaurant Plans New Year Party

You can plan on an interesting evening if you drop by the Skylark Restaurant on 37th Avenue January 23 during the Chinese New Year's celebration. To commemorate the "Year of the Tiger" occasion, Ray Lim, chef in charge of the dining room, is offering a Choice Filet Dinner ($4.25) and a Special Chinese Dinner ($2.25). So to all of you from Ray Lim and the staff at John Gampers' Skylark, "GUNG HAY FAT CHOY." A complete chicken dinner for $1.99 is the current dinner special being featured at Steaks Unique, one of the Garden Restaurants located on the lower level of San Bruno's Tanforan Park Shopping Center. Responsible for this money-saving offer is Jack Ghio, who says to clip Steak Unique's coupon in today's Bright Lights and present it to the restaurant by March 31.

Nick Gust Solves Dine Out Question

The "Where shall we dine tonight?" question is easily solved at Nick Gust's three restaurants in Rockaway Beach. The Moonraker, featuring outstanding Continental cuisine; Nick's, a family restaurant serving breakfast, luncheon and dinner; and Captain Charles, a seafood specialty house, are just a 15-minute drive over the hill from the Peninsula. "Happy Hours" prevail each evening, Mondays through Fridays, from 4 p.m. to 7 p.m. in the Golden Rooster Lounge of the Rodeway Inn, South San Francisco. 60-cent drinks are served during these hours, plus complimentary hors d'oeuvres. The Rodeway Inn offers continuous entertainment and dancing every night of the week. Sunday Ramos Fizz Brunch at Lehr's Greenhouse in San Francisco attracts overflow crowds of happy diners, and with good reason. The setting is ideal: a beautiful garden in full bloom, filled with beautiful flowers, plants and towering banana palm trees. The food is superb (wait 'til you bite into the smoked salmon) and the price is a happy surprise, too. Ramos Fizz included.

Terry Lowry Enjoys Phil Lehr's Steakery

TV Channel 4's pretty weather gal, Terry Lowry, celebrated her birthday with a gala dinner party in the elegant Wellington Room of Phil Lehr's Steakery, in downtown San Francisco. Host Phil Lehr presented Terry with a surprise birthday gift: A pair of beautiful silver candlestick holders. Be sure to try one of the Chef's Specialties at Tony Kwan's new Phoenix restaurant on Peninsula Avenue. An intriguing dish under this category is Shrimp and Peas, with Scrambled Eggs. The "Belmont Steaks" are still being run at Holiday Inn, Belmont. The "two-for-one" steak offer, a promotion of Innkeeper Joe DeDio, is a real bonanza. Buy one top sirloin steak at $6.25 and receive the second steak dinner without cost when presenting the Holiday Inn's coupon found in today's Bright Lights. This offer is available every evening of the week, through Thursday, Jan. 31. Pop-A-Groove, a versatile five-piece band, will appear at Whiskey Hill in downtown Burlingame through Jan. 26. Owned by Peninsula "Pizza King" Pete Brallier, the club recently underwent some remodeling which includes modern kitchen facilities and spacious new dance floor.

URNS ON THE ALLURE — Lavern Cummings, chanteuse in the current hit revue at Finocchio's, is a real smash in a new blonde wig and metallic silver gown, when singing some new songs. Lavern, one of the longtime favorites in this world-famous show of female impersonators, gets a big hand singing "I'll Hate Myself in the Morning, But I'm Gonna Raise a Little Hell Tonight."

Scotty Campbell's Food and Atmosphere

For that next dinner gathering of the "clan," head for Scotty Campbell's in Redwood City. Superb food, pleasant atmosphere and personalized service sets this flourishing restaurant apart from the ordinary. Mary Lou Fox is the delightful managing owner who keeps things running smoothly in all departments. Is it any wonder that headliners playing the nearby Circle Star Theater are seeking out this restaurant for their leisure dining hours and after-performances get-togethers over cocktails. The "Prince of Pizzas," as Enrico Romano, owner of Romano's Italian restaurant at Rockaway Beach, Pacifica, is known, "rolls his own" pizza dough, often spending entire days in the kitchen in preparation for the evening onslaught of diners. And if you have a fancy for Italian food, Romano's has a Bay Area wide reputation for its outstanding a la carte and full course meals. One of the favorite dishes of the many celebrities who dine regularly at Doros in San Francisco is Flanked Chateaubriand, Sauce Bearnaise, as prepared by Master Chef Paolo Bernani.

Correction Regarding Live Fox Hunting

In his column, "Foxy", appearing in The Post on Sept. 26, 1973, Le Pacini wrote that much of the fox hunting in Northern California is "done in Woodside on Stanford property by the Northern California Hunt Club."

He also wrote, without reference to a specific hunt club, "Contrary to popular belief, the foxes in fox hunts—even in Northern California—are real."

The columnist went on to describe "drag hunts," involving the use of a rag soaked in fox scent, adding, "Surprisingly, or perhaps not, the drag hunt is mostly an English practice, while Americans do most of the live hunting."

A spokesman for Stanford University, Donald T. Carlson, associate director of University Relations, has denied that live foxes are used in fox hunts on the University's property at Woodside.

Carlson writes:

"An article which we are told appeared in . . . your publication has given some of your readers the impression that live foxes are being hunted down for sport on lands belonging to Stanford University. We have received a number of complaints in this regard and the Los Altos Hunt Club has received even more.

"We should like to assure your readers that the impression that live animals are being chased in these organized hunts is quite mistaken. A scent bag is specially prepared and dragged over a given course for the hounds to follow. I doubt if these dogs would recognize the smell of a real fox if they whiffed him."

Victor K. Zurcher, president of the Los Altos Hunt Club, similarly has denied the existence of organized live fox hunts.

The Post hereby stands corrected, and offers its apology to the University and hunt club members for any resulting embarrassment or inconvenience.

Le Pacini

John Brodie

Probably no one was more saddened over John Brodie's retirement than E. P. "Gino" Di Pasqua, of South San Francisco, who was, and is and surely always will be Brodie's all-time biggest fan.

For years Di Pasqua kept a giant scrapbook devoted solely to Brodie's adventures, both positive and negative, and although we haven't checked with Gino lately, we're sure that by this time he's presented the book to Brodie with appropriate ceremony.

Knowing what we know of the Bay Area's Fickle Fandom and of the press's easy willingness to often reflect that attitude, we would take a guess that negatives run fairly close to positives in Gino's scrapbook.

But to Gino, that merely proves a lack of sensitivity on the part of fans and press, because he KNOWS Brodie is one of the greatest quarterbacks who ever lived, and if a lot of other people had the opportunity to perceive this and didn't, well, that's their problem. He feels sorry for them.

To prove his point, Di Pasqua notes Brodie's obvious statistics (he holds virtually all 49er passing records, is behind only Johnny Unitas in career passing attempts and completions, is third on the all-time list in yards gained passing), and less obvious ones, such as his 4.9 interception rate (that is, only 4.9 per cent of his passes were intercepted), which is one of the lowest of all career interception percentages.

"Don't forget," he loves to reflect, "that that was accomplished with a lot of weak teams, a lot of poor protection, a lot of inefficient pass receivers. You throw that few interceptions with so much going against you and you've got to be a great quarterback."

DI PASQUA likes to trap people with the latter statement, because while many of them will agree that Brodie played with a lot of poor teams and often didn't have adequate protection, most will argue with the "inefficient receivers" rap, and immediately begin to tick off the names of 49er receivers who at various times tore up the league during Brodie's reign, i.e., R. C. Owens, Dave Parks and Clifton McNeil.

It is at this point that Di Pasqua generally ends all argument by asking what Owens, Parks and McNeil did after they left the 49ers. The answer is an obvious, "not much."

"Sure," says Di Pasqua triumphantly. "That's because Brodie made them great receivers by getting the ball to them. They didn't do a helluva lot for Brodie that a lot of other receivers couldn't have done for him."

Another less obvious statistic cited by Di Pasqua is that Brodie, panned for years as a lead-bottom who couldn't run out of his own way to help protect himself, is among the top 20 49er career ground gainers, and scored more touchdowns than many of the team's more fabled runners.

And finally, notes Di Pasqua, "The true mark of the man was that he never complained, never blamed others, never defended himself. He just always picked himself up and went on playing, never quitting."

We personally don't know if Brodie was as bad as some of his critics claimed he was, or as good as Di Pasqua knows he was. But we do know one thing. For one man to have so thoroughly convinced another man of his worth, he must have had something.

WE KNOW that it's finally become fashionable to call pro football—especially the Super Bowl—a bore, but we think we're entitled, because we were one of the early pioneers in bad-mouthing the current state of pro football.

So we've gotta tell you that we slept through most of the second half of the Super Bowl, and can't have too much to say about it, except that pro football REALLY gets boring when you're watching it with a hangover.

We did wake up in time, however, to be bored by the post-game press conference. We were almost snapped out of our boredom when the master of ceremonies for the press conference (his name escapes us at the moment) announced that Larry Csonka, "the player of the game, perhaps of the decade," would soon be with them. We figured, hell, it would be worth staying awake to see the player of the game, perhaps the decade, interviewed. But then a commercial came, and by the time it was over, Csonka's stock had evidently slipped, because now he was being announced as "the player of the game, perhaps the year." We began to doze off again.

Anybody who can go from player of the decade to player of the year—a drop of 90 per cent—in 60 seconds, has got to be boring, and we were right. Csonka, we discerned between nods, was not only boring, but rude. Which made him not just a bore, but a boor.

Of course, Csonka didn't have much to work with. The questions he was fed were boring because they had all been asked before.

Somebody out there might ask, well, how could ANYBODY come up with a different question after hundreds of newsmen had been asking questions all week.

That is faulty thinking. For example, we never once heard a football player asked what he thinks of the energy crisis. Granted, that is an original question only in the context of the Super Bowl, but still, it would have at least broken the monotony. And there's no reason why an offen-

NPL Cinderellas Head for Showdown

By JERRY LITTELL
Post Correspondent

The two Cinderella teams in the North Peninsula League continue to waltz merrily through the basketball schedule as midnight rapidly approaches.

Westmoor, an early-season consensus sixth place choice, and Terra Nova, which many thought would play only semi-respectable ball, are both 5-0 in conference action and are heading for the inevitable face-to-face meeting today.

Both teams won close games Friday afternoon and both had to rally: Westmoor edged South San Francisco 68-62 while Terra Nova got by winless Serramonte 42-38.

In other NPL play Oceana beat Half Moon Bay 68-51 while El Camino bombed Jefferson 66-40.

Westmoor 68, South S.F. 62
Sophomore forward Jerry McNeil trned around a possible SSF runaway with four consecutive buckets in 2½ minutes of the second quarter, enabling Westmoor to put on one of its two gap-closing rallies and eventually overtake the Warriors in Daly City.

South City, behind the spectacular outside shooting of junior forward Albert Dunn, had built up a 12-point lead midway through the second quarter. But Westmoor finally got the ball to McNeil and the lead was cut to just two at the half, 35-33. South City came out firing again in the third period and jumped ahead by nine, but this time McNeil and junior guard Rob Baptista combined offensively to close the margin to within two, 45-43. The Warriors maintained a two-point lead from then on.

Halfway through the final period Westmoor took its first lead on Maurice Pittman's layin, 59-57, and they never relinquished it.

Pittman hit three free throws in the final minute and Baptista added a five-foot jumper to put the game away over a Warrior team that continually looks powerful early, but falters badly in the late going.

T.N. 42, Serramonte 38
A full-court zone press in the last quarter and two key blocked shots by 5-7 guard Bob Downing triggered a winning Terra Nova rally.

The Tigers were down by three after three periods but the press forced Serramonte into numerous ballhandling errors, and the Tigers took the final lead with 1½ minutes left on Todd McClure's 15-footer.

Center Mike Walley hit a layin with 0:58 left for a 41-38 lead, and McClure's free throw with 0:32 left ended scoring. Serramonte led virtually all the way against the smaller Tigers but couldn't handle full-court pressure from quicker, more experienced Tiger guards.

Oceana 68, HBM 51
The in-and-out-again Sharks found the range against winless Half Moon Bay. Forward Steve Broadway, who had been averaging four points a game, thoroughly enjoyed himself for the first time this year, popping for 18 points.

HMB continued to suffer the fate of a poor-shooting team, hitting just 28 per cent of its floor attempts.

El Camino 66, Jeff 40
Forward Mike Jiggetts continued his week-long offensive exploits, and was joined by center Steve Kennedy's excellent rebounding effort as El Camino finally broke loose offensively.

All 12 Colts saw action in their most lopsided win of the year. The victory pushed them to a 3-2 mark and gave indications that El Camino might fill one of the two remaining playoff positions.

Hilton Enters Indoor

Two of the world's top milers, American champion Len Hilton and South Africa's Fanie Van Zijl, have been added to the distance running lineup for the San Francisco Indoor track and field meet Feb. 1.

Earlier announced entries in distance events include Oregon's Steve Prefontaine and Olympic marathon champion Frank Shorter.

The 26-year-old Hilton upset Marty Liquori to win the AAU title last year in 3:55.9, the seventh-best mile ever by an American.

Both men rank among the all-time leaders in the 1,500 meters, Hilton at 3:37.7 and Can Zijl at 3:37.9, the latter time run at over 4,000 feet altitude.

Ticket agencies for the meet include Macy's and Darcy's Sporting Goods in San Mateo.

Benchmen Help CSM

CSM basketball coach Bobby Pounds wanted to see which reserves would be able to help most.

And the starters had voted to let the benchmen take over.

So Saturday night against visiting nonconference Monterey Peninsula, the Bulldogs started five subs. The result was a tiny bit embarrassing.

Greg Smith, Larry Griffin, Tim Sunderland, Rob Ronconi and Roy Umland took the court and brought CSM a 28-27 halftime lead.

But in the second half, when the starters returned, MPC took over for a 54-53 squeaker win.

"We didn't think we'd lose," said Pounds. "We had a lot of trouble getting a basket at the end. But all in all, things worked out well."

"I heard compliments on Umland. I think he can play in the Golden Gate Conference now. And I liked what I saw of Griffin. You have to know who can play when you need someone."

CSM has been suffering from a depth problem, most evident when front line starters got in foul trouble earlier this month against Chabot.

Umland, a 6-5 center who came to CSM after a tour of duty in the Air Force, led Bulldog scorers and there were quite a few of them with eight points.

Canada held a 32-31 lead at halftime, but Foothill took charge early in the second half and was never headed. The winners were paced by Rock Carlson's 23 points and Steve Maehl's 19, while Ernie Shepler led the Colts with 23 points.

Foothill (4-0) hosts unbeaten (5-1) De Anza Saturday night.

TN Cagers Are For Real

By JERRY LITTELL
Post Correspondent

In the North Peninsula League, Terra Nova High's cagers are very much for real.

The Tigers, who suffered through a less-than-successful practice season with the rest of the conference teams, suddenly and spectacularly find themselves on a four-game win streak and atop the league standings.

Bud Bresnahan's Tigers haven't been beating the supposed weak sisters, either. Last Wednesday's 53-50 win over El Camino marked their third win over teams picked for the playoffs.

But Bresnahan is leery of anyone from this time on.

"I think we caught a few people by surprise with three wins in that first week of conference action," Bresnahan noted. "However, we apparently will be marked and live bait for anyone from now on."

The Tigers aren't at all big, and it's unknown whether they can shoot from anywhere outside six to seven feet.

Wednesday's win at home over the Colts was a near-flawless performance, as the Tigers time and again cracked both a full-court zone and man-to-man press for at times easy, and at other times circus, layins.

TN's Bob Downing hit nine for 14 from the floor and as the team the Tigers hit over 50 per cent for the third time in four games.

So precise was the Tiger zone that they didn't even commit a foul until half the final quarter was over. Camino got zero free throw attempts.

Guard Downing had things pretty much his own way offensively. He did everything right against the press, and when the Tigers' offensive plays stalled, he isolated himself on one side of the court and played a little one-on-one.

El Camino, for the second straight game, suffered through the pangs of a non-balanced scoring attack. Last game El Camino managed to win with just John Christman and Mike Jiggetts getting buckets. This time Jiggetts and Christman were joined by center Steve Kennedy in double figures, but it still wasn't enough.

The Colts had a three-point lead with four minutes to go off Jiggetts' layin, 50-47, but the Tigers rolled off six straight points on two free throws by Walley and Downing's eight-foot jumper off a one-on-one drive, with another two free throws in the final seconds.

Rams' Runaway

Daly City Recreation League Play

Westmoor High's basketball team hasn't a chance to look over its shoulder yet: its biggest competitor for first place is running a neck-and-neck race.

Both the Rams and Terra Nova Tigers continue undefeated after four NPL games, with the Rams' 60-45 win over Serramonte last Wednesday being the youngsters' most impressive.

Jefferson edged Serramonte 57-54 while South San Francisco ran by Half Moon Bay 66-45.

Westmoor's pressing defense forced Serramonte (now 0-4) into 27 turnovers, and a poor-shooting first half netted the Regents only 13 points by intermission.

Up by 17 at the half, the Rams dominated play in the third period before subs let the margin dwindle. Maurice Pittman led the Rams with 13 points.

Oceana's poor second-quarter shooting, during which time the Sharks went 2-21 from the floor, was a blown golden opportunity against Jefferson in Pacifica.

Jeff had taken a six-point first-quarter lead, but each team could score only five points in the second quarter.

Had the Sharks been semi-warm, they might have taken a solid lead into the halftime.

Sub guard Mike Keough led a third-quarter outside shooting spurt that carried Oceana back within one, but Jeff maintained a three-point lead most of the way.

The Sharks' final rally fell short, as with three seconds left they missed two free throws and missed a shot off the offensive rebound.

Cold-shooting Half Moon Bay continued its trend of being unable to put the ball through the hoop, connecting on just 21-72 floor shots.

Sub SSF forward Bruce Cattaneo got high point honors with 19 playing in place of Rolfe Athearn, while guard Ron Jimenez chipped in another 17.

SSF Ping Pong Tourney Slated

The South San Francisco Parks and Recreation Department will sponsor the Second Annual City Wide Double Elimination Singles Ping Pong Championship during the month of May.

The tourney will determine local South San Francisco champions in the sixth grade and under eighth grade and under ninth and 10th grade, eleventh and twelfth grade and adults.

Matches will be played on the Orange Memorial Park Recreation Center, Feb. 9 and 16 from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. for high school ages and under. Adults will be scheduled Tuesday evenings.

Matches may be scheduled during the week if both players agree and secure the approval of the tournament director.

Entry deadline for the tournament is Feb. 1. Local South San Francisco residents or those living within the South San Francisco Unified School District are eligible to participate.

Participants may enter their city championship by getting an entry form from the South San Francisco Parks and Recreation Department, Magnolia and Grand Avenues, 588-6200, ext. 50, on or before Feb. 1.

Elementary, junior high or high school students may pick up an entry form at their school office or at their nearest teen center, park or playground.

Trophies will be awarded to the first and second place winners and ribbons to the third place winners.

Tennis tables are available for practice use.

San Jose Booters

The new San Jose entry in the North American Soccer League will pick eighth in the college player draft today.

The session, which starts at 10 a.m., and will also include a veterans draft, will be conducted by telephone out of New York. The San Jose team will draft first and ninth in the veterans draft. The eligible veterans are players who competed for the now disbanded Montreal and Atlanta franchises.

"We'll probably only get two or three from the college draft," said Dick Berg, general manager of the San Jose team.

Laney Hits CSM

College of San Mateo's basketball team had the misfortune of being present for Laney's best shooting night of the season Friday night in Oakland.

Laney hit 41 of 80 shots from long, long range and beat the Bulldogs 87-74. Laney is now 2-1 in the Golden Gate Conference and CSM 1-2.

In other community college action tonight, Canada seeks to climb over the 500 mark in the Camino Norte Conference when Foothill comes visiting at 8 p.m. In nonconference play, Menlo travels to Moffett Field for a 7:30 p.m. game.

CSM figured to have a good shot at Laney — the hosts had already lost to several teams CSM had beaten.

But Laney was just coming home after a long time on the road, and was ready to celebrate.

"Their coach said it was their best game of the year," said Bulldog mentor Bobby Pounds. "My kids had their heads down. I said, 'Listen. They just outshot us, outplayed us.'"

"I told them that there are nine conference games left, and if they were good enough, they could still win it all."

The OLP Cardinals and the St. Andrews Scots are setting the pace in the Fourth Grade Northern Division of Daly City Recreation Department league play.

OLPH remained undefeated (2-0) with an 18-13 win over the luckless Holy Angels Rocks while St. Andrews defeated an inexperienced SAL Supersonics team 41-8.

OLM holds a slim lead over the OLP Chargers and St. Andrews Scotties after two weeks of league play in the fourth grade Eastern Division. OLM edged SAL 20-6, while St. Andrews beat St. Thomas More 28-0 for their first run.

In the fourth grade Western Division the St. Andrews Scots ran past St. Thomas More 14-2 to lead their division. In other games, SAL's Devils defeated the OLM Reds 18-12, while the LBYA Cougars beat the SAL Leopards 17-4.

The PAL Cougars and SAL are tied for the league lead in the fifth grade Eastern division. In second week action, OLM Reds 22, St. Andrews Scots 4; LBYA 26, SAL Superstars 9; and St. Thomas More 18, St. Andrews Greys 16.

The PAL Cougars and SAL remain undefeated after two weeks of play in the Western division.

In the sixth grade Eastern division SAL, St. Thomas More and OLM remain tied for first after two weeks of play. SAL beat the PAL Bulls 24-13, St. Thomas More held off Holy Angels 21-4, and OLM defeated St. Andrews 30-15.

OLM downed PAL 31-19 while the Blues beat LBYA 31-11 to remain deadlocked in the Western division. St. Andrews Scots nipped Hunts 25-17 in the only other scheduled game.

THE BEGINNING—Al Seubert of South San Francisco and his son, Ed, prepare some of the trees they will plant on Sign Hill overlooking the city, a project Seubert has pursued alone for several years. (George Brooke Photo)

Mission Now Possible

By JACK BIK

"Some day we can expect to be able to tramp through the woods, climb to the highest point — and look down on South San Francisco."

That is the dream of Al Seubert, 224 Northwood Drive, South San Francisco.

For the past 15 years, he has been devoting his spare time to a mission that at times has seemed hopeless, but which now appears to be headed for possible success. That mission is to turn steep, bleak Sign Hill into a forested knoll right in the midst of the northeastern section of South San Francisco.

The hill is well-known to Bayshore motorists as the site for the sign in giant letters: "South San Francisco — The Industrial City."

Seubert, who is a pharmacist at UC Medical Center, recalls how a former park director, known as Doc Madison, got him interested in planting trees. With his four sons, he was active in scouting then. Together with his troop, he started off with planting some 2000 trees.

"But nobody took care of them. It was a very dry year, and there were lots of grass fires. Most of the trees died."

That seemed to be the story over the years. Because of a lack of water on the hill, Seubert loads his station wagon up with jugs and carries them from tree to tree, giving each one a half-gallon of water.

"That may not seem like much," he concedes, "but it enables the tree to survive another month — if it doesn't burn."

Every year, however, the hill is plagued by grass fires which eliminate the seedlings that Seubert and his fellow conservationists so painfully plant.

"They seem to get worse just around Fourth of July," Seubert said.

The fires usually start just behind the back fences of homes bordering the hill, and then sweep up the hill. At times when the grass is tall fire will spread quickly. At one time, several years ago, a fireman was trapped and critically burned.

Once recently, Seubert climbed the hill to water the trees and had to squirt the water on a grass fire instead. When he was out of water, he beat out the remaining flames with his coat.

"If there were only some way of educating children and their parents of the need to get a forest up there, then maybe the trees could get enough of a start," Seubert said.

His most faithful aides in the tree planting have been members of Boy Scout Troop 79, his old troop. They have often climbed up the hill three to four times a year. In recent years, the All Souls Teen Club helped. Last summer, he took a week of vacation to work with a high school work-study group, but it had been a dry spring and the "hill was a rock." It was tough digging and "some of the girls weren't too handy at swinging a pick."

In that kind of a year, he uses the techniques of dry farming. He digs around each tree, loosening its soil.

One time, he received the aid of a group from Hillcrest Juvenile Hall, some of whom admitted to having set a fire or two there on previous occasions.

His biggest hope lies in receiving added help from the city. The city has recently obtained a source of water for the hill and given Seubert some long hoses, enabling him to dispose of those jugs. He is hoping that the city can spare some of its federal revenue-sharing funds to install an irrigation system on the hill, which would solve the water problem completely.

Lately, he has been taking time away from caring for the trees to build firebreaks.

Seubert raises the trees from seeds in his own backyard in the Brentwood section, although he has gotten some from the park department. He has planted all kinds of trees, including eucalyptus, Monterey Pine, cypress and even oaks, grown from acorns gathered on Scout hikes.

His biggest need, he says, is simply more help from the citizens of South San Francisco. The Chamber of Commerce put on a campaign last year for a city-wide tree planting weekend — and only 25 persons came.

Friday evening, Seubert will be among those receiving outstanding citizen awards from the South San Francisco Chamber of Commerce. The award should be shared, he insists, with his wife Betty, his four sons, Troop 79, the teen club and all the other persons who have been devoting their spare time to creating a forest for their city.

City Engineer Named in SSF

Robert Yee, 38, has been selected city engineer of South San Francisco. City Manager Ed Alario announced last week.

Yee has been assistant city engineer of Livermore since 1967, and served as associate city engineer of Sunnyvale previously.

He was born in China, but is a naturalized American citizen. He received his bachelor of science degree from the University of California, in Berkeley, and took courses in business administration and management from San Jose State University. He is a veteran of the Korean War.

Yee is to start Feb. 4. His appointment takes care of one of the major remaining vacancies for South San Francisco, and is a step in rebuilding the city's engineering department which virtually was eliminated when the VTN engineering firm resigned under fire. The city's five engineering positions were eliminated when VTN took over the city's engineering functions several months earlier.

Under the new city organization, the city engineer will serve under the director of the Public Services Department. Heading Public Services will be Frank Addiego, who will assume the post Monday. Addiego is also an engineer.

Two other new officials started last week—William Costanzo, zoning administrator, and David Haughey, administrative assistant to the city manager for personnel.

Five other major posts are being filled — director of Parks and Recreation, the city planner, chief building inspector, and directors of finance, and communications.

Foes of Growth Assailed in Talk

Whether 1974 is a "boom or bust year" will depend on the business community. Henry "Bud" Bostwick Jr., general manager of the San Mateo County Development Corp., told the Greater Daly City Chamber of Commerce recently.

Bostwick predicted the year would "boom if you people in business make it, otherwise it will fizzle."

The veteran business and industry spokesman pointed out that elected officials on both local and county levels were doing "the best job they can with damn little help from people in business."

And he said he would not be an elected official today "because it's a 24 hour-a-day job and everybody places demands on an elected official at all hours."

Bostwick, slapping at some conservationist groups he accused of going overboard in attempts to protect the environment, said business had "dropped the ball" in presenting balanced growth and environmental protection programs.

Further, these groups, which he referred to as "a vocal minority," were "preying on the fears" of some officials and citizens in their battle to slow business and industrial growth in the county.

As an example, Bostwick cited the move toward preventing the expansion of San Francisco Airport and alleged attempts to make it a second class airport.

What would San Mateo

County do without the 30,000 jobs the airport provided.

Without waiting for an answer, the former member of the now-defunct San Francisco Bay Conservation Commission (forerunner to the Bay Conservation and Development Commission) said taxes from the airport and surrounding support facilities (hotels-motels, Cabot, Cabot & Forbes Industrial Park) provided nearby communities with needed services and aided in holding down homeowners' property tax rates.

Pacifica Sues to Triple Income

Pacifica's City Council Jan. 14 voted to join the City of Baldwin Park in suing the state, in an effort to triple its income from sales taxes.

"I'm told that the only way we can gain tax equality would be through the courts — not through legislation," declared Mayor Aubrey Lumley.

The council voted to appropriate $1,140, on the basis of three cents per person, for Baldwin Park's war chest. Baldwin Park Mayor Leo W. King wrote the Pacifica City Council that his city has hired an Orange County law firm to test the constitutionality of the Bradley-Burns Sales and Use Tax Act, in the courts.

King said 74 cities, with 1.8 million persons, have shown an interest in joining the suit.

The one per cent local government sales tax now is distributed to cities on the basis of where the tax is collected, instead of population. Thus, cities with large shopping centers, big car dealers and manufacturers collect the bulk of sales taxes, while cities composed largely of homes collect little.

City Manager Dave Thompson told the council Monday night that Pacifica received a 1971 sales tax rebate of $253,380. If the taxes had been distributed on the basis of population, Pacifica would have received $900,139, alleviating many of its current problems.

In its resolution supporting Baldwin Hills, the council stated that under the current system, the consumer, against whom such tax is levied, does not receive the benefit of the tax, that cities which eliminate residential development in favor of commercial get the money.

INSTRUCTION

THE MARQUEE

By Barbara Bladen

Wow, have I got a terrific movie for you. But don't put off seeing "The Sting" too long. The way good movies vanish and the lousy ones hang on, you'd better move fast.

District

Business

Aide Named

The Jefferson Elementary School Board of Trustees decided Jan. 16 they had waited too long already in replacing fired Associate Superintendent for Business Roger Barthuli and hired John Lynch, now with the Millbrae School District.

Lynch had temporarily helped out the district after Barthuli's firing last year.

Barthuli, however, has filed a lawsuit against the JESD asking he be reinstated with back pay.

That decision has not been handed down by the court as yet. It was expected a ruling will be forthcoming later this week or next week.

Meanwhile, a board spokesman said, the district could no longer wait "because there is business to be done, and the man we now have in that slot is on temporary assignment."

The spokesman said even if the court decided in favor of Barthuli, the district was prepared to appeal, "and that would leave us without an Associate Superintendent for Business for the next three or four years."

He said he based his assumption on the normal time consumed in such legal matters.

Don Brooks is presently filling the post. He is on leave of absence from Simpson Bible College.

The position pays an annual salary of $26,500. Barthuli had been paid $26,800 at the time of his firing.

There has been a 7.3 per cent increase in certificated salaries since Barthuli left the district.

Parents Club

Spring Dance Is Planned

March 2 has been chosen as the date for the spring benefit dance, sponsored by the Performing Arts Parents Club at South San Francisco's El Camino High School. It will be held at the Machinists Hall in Burlingame at 8 p.m.

Music will be provided by the El Camino Jazz Band directed by music department instructor Ted Marr.

Planners say the event will include refreshments throughout the evening, and a special midnight buffet as well as several drawings for prizes.

Proceeds will be used to purchase additional theatrical equipment for use in the El Camino Little Theater and elsewhere in the performing arts program, which includes more than one third of the student body.

Recently several portable bars for the dance classes were purchased from proceeds of the dance held by the club last fall, and negotiations are underway for professional lighting equipment.

The parents club was formed in 1969, and has been engaged in support of student activities since with several successful fund-raising events.

Tickets for the spring dance are $5 per person, and can be reserved by calling 589-5631.

Body Found

On Beach

A body believed to be that of Michael Hogan of Pacheco in Contra Costa County, the third victim of a Dec. 30 boating accident was found washed up on Rockaway Beach in Pacifica late last Wednesday morning.

Hogan was the owner of the 30-foot sailboat, "Prelude," which was found on the sand at Thornton Beach State Park in Daly City with a hole in its hull.

Hogan and two companions, Kenneth White, 28, of Walnut Creek, and Stewart Merritt, 23, of Lafayette, had sailed from Berkeley Dec. 30.

The bodies of White and Merritt were found near Pillar Point the day after the boat washed ashore.

A Rip-off By Loveable Con Artists

audacity, tease you with its skillfully suspenseful script by David S. Ward and thoroughly delight you with the marvelous deceptions perpetrated by two con men during the Depression on a less crafty millionaire, Irish racketeer Robert Shaw.

There are more red herrings than a Fisherman's Wharf wholesale grotto. Just when you think you've figured out the chicanery, the tables turn and you're jumping out of your seat at the fun of having been fooled, not once but repeatedly. It's one of the best scripts I've heard in a long while. Literature dialogue and sharp focus is rarely a strong point in today's quickie, low budget films.

The con game is so intricate and now obsolete, I had to have it explained after the screening, but it involves gambling, hookjacking the sucker with the big money in a poker game where both men cheat (and admit it to each other), then setting up an elaborate screen to gain his confidence for a con game called "the wire" that delivers race results from various tracks to a large scoreboard.

You'll just love it. Newman and Redford, the former being the brains behind the setup and the latter his slick accomplice who implements the scheme (and half a dozen side plots woven through the master plan) are such con artists, you'll hate to see their masterful rip-off end.

A lot of heads get knocked and there is a fair amount of gun-play. But the engaging romp of their ambitious and ticklish ruse is so delicious, the occasional brutality is dismissed along the way. Newman, with a colossal hangover, and Redford, grinning arrogantly over his success at switching wallets, are the most likeable rogues since they hung up their spurs as Cassidy and Sundance.

Set in Chicago in 1936 with rakish, flashy clothes by Edith Head, glorious vintage cars and ragtime piano music by Scott Joplin, it boasts a top flight cast of actors each creating a memorable character. The film is rich with colorful portrayals by Eileen Brennan, Dana Elcar and Robert Earl Jones.

reported to the Naval Air Station Whiting Field in Milton, Fla. for flight training. During his six-month stay with Training Squadron Three he will receive

It's Time Now to Prune Fruit Trees

By IVA-NEWMAN

New growth is developing at an alarming rate in spite of the weather and this is one of nature's signals to start pruning all deciduous plants and shrubs as soon as possible. Bearing fruit trees should head the priority list as fruits are expected to be in short supply and thus quite expensive this year.

Good pruning depends to a great extent on having and using the right tools and in having and keeping them sharp and clean. We highly recommend the hook and blade type of shear as we find we have far less dieback with these shears than we do with the anvil type shear. Dieback is a rotting back of the stump left above a living "eye" or bud. The sap cannot go beyond the topmost good bud, thus if the top bud is damaged or left with too long a stump, fungi, bacterial rot or boring insects may enter the wound and cause it to die back. Once dieback gets a hold it often travels the full length of the branch killing it completely. We carry a jar or rubbing alcohol and a clean rag in our pruning kit. The blades of the shears are dipped frequently and wiped to keep an accumulation of sap from collecting on the blades and causing a rough cut.

In addition to a hand shear the pruner will need a lopper with a fairly long handle for branches too big for hand shears. A good saw is also a necessity for the really large branches. We prefer one with a curved blade. A can of pruning paint will also be needed for wounds over 1/4 inch in diameter. This paint should not be applied in such a way that it runs down the side of the branch, only the cut section should be covered. This prevents loss of sap or "weeping" and it prevents entrance of fungi spores and insect pests.

Peaches and Nectarines

Peaches and nectarines bear their fruits on new wood produced last year. Fruits and nectarines are the only fruits with this bearing habit. New growth bears only once. These trees are very vigorous growers and the great amount of new growth they produce necessitates hard pruning. This type of pruning encourages new growth. Start by cutting out all dead branches, crossing branches and those that bore fruit last year. Next remove from 1/2 to 2/3 of last year's new growth. This calls for discretion by the pruner as some branches will need to be removed at their source while others will have only 1/3 of their length removed. The best fruits are borne on the middle third of each branch. When the pruning on these trees is finished the tree should be open at the top like a funnel so the sun can reach all parts of the tree. This aids in developing and ripening of the fruit. If the tree is young the pruner should strive toward getting well distributed growth over all parts of the tree.

Persimmon trees are gaining in popularity for home garden use and they are surely ornamental when the colorful fruits hang like golden balls on the bare branches. When these trees are young very careful attention should be paid to the branching. Select for keeping, laterals with strong, rather wide, crotches. A crotch is the angle formed where the branch leaves the trunk. The wood on the persimmon is quite brittle and a weak or "V" shaped crotch is likely to split when the branch is loaded with fruit. Branches with this type of crotch can be saved by cabling (running a cable from the branch to the trunk) or placing a post support under the branch to help it hold its weight of fruit. Watch so as to keep the head of the tree open so sunlight and air will encourage fruit to form on the stronger parts of the branches rather than the tips. When thinning, but back to a lateral and never leave a stub.

Apple

The apple is probably the most popular of the deciduous fruit trees grown in the garden. When this tree is young it needs careful training to keep the top open for good penetration of air and sunlight. We like to keep our trees so we can pick all the fruit without too much trouble. We pinch out the tip when it is 8 to 10 feet tall or settle for a dwarf type that stays at about that height. Branches should be carefully spaced with good crotches. With a bearing tree the pruner should learn to recognize fruit spurs as these grow on apple trees. Spurs are really fruit-bearing twigs that will get up to about three inches in length. Pear and Cherry trees produce their fruits from spurs. The spurs start from vegetative buds on new shoots. They usually start bearing in their second year when they are little more than a nubbin. Pruning of apple trees starts with the removal of dead wood, crossing branches and weak branches. New growth on an established tree should be thinned to permit light and air and to encourage the development of fruit buds on the bearing spurs. According to growers the spurs on apple trees will produce for up to 20 years.

An established pear tree should not be pruned hard or it will put all its energy into vegetative growth at the expense of the fruit. Prune a pear tree like the apple. Pears are very subject to "pear blight," a form of fireblight. Be sure shears are clean and sharp and dip them in the alcohol frequently. Growers insist their pruners dip the cutting blades of their shears after every cut. This is very wise if there is dead wood on the tree.

Plums and prunes are one and the same in that prunes are plums that dry well. Two varieties of plums are grown in local gardens. These are the Japanese plums which, thanks to Burbank, include such varieties as Burbank, Santa Rosa, Satsuma, Nubiana plus several more. The European plum includes most of our prunes including the French prune, the Damsen, Green Gage and Sugar plum. The Japanese plum is a strong grower that sends out a lot of shoot growth that needs a lot of thinning. Keep trees well thinned so plenty of air and light can reach all parts of the tree. The European plum needs little pruning except to have the annual shoot growth thinned out. Both need dead wood and crossing branches removed right back to their source.

Year-Long Party in Pacifica

Plans for a year-long party have been approved by the Pacifica City Council.

It will be held during 1976, to celebrate the 200th birthday of the United States.

Preliminary plans were drafted by Richard Burton, director of parks, beaches and recreation.

The celebration will center around four major programs:

July Fourth Celebration: Proposed are a parade, picnic, carnival, swim day, community dance and various teen activities. The program would be designed to "involve the entire family in an old-fashioned celebration." Theme of the day will be the Colonial era.

Community Festival: This event would be a community-wide festival, similar to the Renaissance Faire and Elf Market. Groups and persons would sell hand-made arts and crafts, food, and provide entertainment, all fitting the bicentennial theme. Costumes would be a must for everyone. Burton suggests the festival be held in the spring, in conjunction with the annual Art Guild show, or in November as part of Pacifica's Bay Discovery Day, or both times. This festival could have a Spanish theme.

Labor Day Rodeo and Playday: Burton suggests expanding the rodeo, already put on annually by the Kiwanis Club. He proposes more spectator participation, including bull-dogging, greased pole climb, bucket brigade, pie eating and beard growing contest.

Portola Discovery Site Celebration: Nov. 4 commemorating Portola's discovery of San Francisco Bay, is already an annual event in Pacifica. It could include the annual hike, fishing derby, community dinner and dance, and a tree-planting program, as well as the celebration of Pacifica's birthday.

LEGAL NOTICES

COUNTY OF SAN MATEO STATE OF CALIFORNIA NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN, that

Sealed bids will be received at the office of the Clerk of the Board of Supervisors, Hall of Justice and Records, Redwood City, California, until the hour of 10:00 a.m., TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 5, 1974, which bids will then be transmitted to the Board of Supervisors at their chambers in the Hall of Justice and Records, where the bids will be publicly opened and read aloud for the resurfacing of a roadway in accordance with the Specifications therefor and to which special reference is made as follows:

RESURFACING OF VARIOUS STREETS IN THE BAYWOOD PARK AREA, TIMBERLANE WAY, QUEEN'S LANE AND KING'S LANE. TOTAL PROJECT APPROXIMATELY 0.97 MILE IN LENGTH, WITH APU RTENANT WORK THEREON.

Bids are required for the entire work described herein.

Engineer's Estimate

ITEM	QUANTITY	UNIT	DESCRIPTION
1	36	Each	Adjust Manhole to Grade
2	20	Each	Adjust Monument Boxes to Grade
3	1,700	Ton	Asphalt Concrete (Type B)
4	1	Ton	Asphaltic Emulsion (Paint Binder)
5	10	L.F.	Rebar

The foregoing quantities are approximate only, being given as a basis for the comparison of bids, and the County of San Mateo does not, expressly or by implication, agree that the actual amount of work will correspond herewith, but reserves the right to increase or decrease the amount of any class or portion of the work, or to omit any portion of the work, as may be deemed necessary or expedient by the Engineer.

Pursuant to Section 1773 of the Labor Code, prevailing wage rates have been advertised in a newspaper of general circulation and copies are available in the office of the County Engineer and in the office of the Clerk of the Board of Supervisors at Resolution No. 31918 of the Board of Supervisors on the 28th day of August 1973, establishing such prevailing wage rates. Said prevailing wage rates shall be made available to any interested party on request, and in such case the successful bidder shall post a check thereof at each job site.

Over time — not less than one and one-half (1½) times the above rates. Sundays and holidays not less than one and one-half (1½) times the above rates.

The holidays upon which such rates shall be paid shall be all holidays recognized in the collective bargaining agreement applicable to the particular craft, classification, or type of workman employed on the project. It is the policy of the County that contractors on public projects employ their workers and craftsmen from the local labor market whenever possible. "Local Labor Market" is defined as the labor market within the geographical confines of the County of San Mateo, State of California. Consistent with this policy, the contractor is requested to employ his craftsmen and other workers from the local labor market whenever possible to do so.

Each bidder shall submit with his bid a Certificate of Compliance, on a form provided in the "Proposal" section of these contract documents, certifying that he is in compliance with the provisions of the Equal Employment Opportunity Requirement of Executive Order 11246, Title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964, the California Fair Employment Practices Act and any other federal or state laws and regulations relating to equal employment opportunity. With the execution of said certificate, bidder also agrees that he will develop and implement, during the course of the work concerned, an affirmative action program of hiring and employment, conducted without regard to race, color, national origin, ancestry or religion of the applicants. With this certification, he shall submit any and all information which may be required by the County in connection with the particular project.

Plans and specifications and forms of proposal and contract may be seen and obtained at the office of the County Purchasing Agent, 601 Hamilton Street, Redwood City, California. Plans and specifications may be obtained for a non-refundable fee of Three Dollars ($3.00) per set.

Additional technical questions should be directed to the office of the County Engineer and Road Commissioner, County Office Building, Redwood City, California.

No bids will be accepted from a bidder who is not licensed as required by laws of the State of California.

The County of San Mateo reserves the right to reject any or all bids, and/or to waive any informality or irregularities in any bid received.

No bidder may withdraw his bid for a period of thirty (30) days after the date set for the opening thereof.

BY ORDER OF THE BOARD OF SUPERVISORS
COUNTY OF SAN MATEO
By E. B. SMITH, Purchasing Agent

Published in The Post, at San Mateo, California 94402

NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS (Advertisement for Bids)

1. NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that the Board of Supervisors of the County of San Mateo, State of California, will receive sealed bids for the furnishing of all labor, tools, materials, equipment, transportation and services required for Repainting of Two Steel Water Storage Tanks, One at Harold D. Chase Community Hospital, One at Water Street Belmont Properties, For the County of San Mateo.

2. Each bid shall be in accordance with drawings, specifications and contract documents prepared therefor now on file with the Purchasing Agent, County of San Mateo, Office Building Annex, 601 Hamilton Street, Redwood City, California.

3. Drawings, Specifications and contract documents may be examined and copies obtained at the Office of the Director of Building Construction and General Services, 550 Hamilton Street, County Office Building, Redwood City, California, upon deposit of $10.00 for said documents, which deposits will be forfeited if the contractor fails to return the drawings and specifications in good condition within ten (10) days of the bid opening date.

4. A complete set of drawings, specifications and contract documents may be examined at the Office of the San Mateo County Director of Building Construction, County Government Center, County Office Building, Redwood City, California.

5. Bidders are responsible to see that they obtain a complete set of plans, specifications and contract documents covering the work upon which they submit a bid.

6. Bids shall be submitted upon proposal forms furnished and bound in the specifications and in accordance with regulations, as set forth in the General Conditions, and shall be accompanied by a certified or cashier's check or bid bond for ten per cent (10%) of the bid as noted in said General Conditions.

7. Bids shall be sealed and filed with the Clerk of the Board of Supervisors of the County of San Mateo at the Hall of Justice and Records, Redwood City, California, on or before the 5th day of February, 1974, at 2:00 p.m. and will be opened in public in the Chambers of said Board of Supervisors at or about 2:00 p.m. of that day in said Hall of Justice and Records.

8. The Board of Supervisors of the County of San Mateo, State of California, reserves the right to reject any and all bids, alternate bids, or unit prices and/or to waive any irregularities in any bid received.

9. No bidder may withdraw his bid for a period of thirty (30) days after the date set for the opening thereof.

10. WAGE RATES: The Board of Supervisors has determined and has now published the rates of prevailing wages in the County of San Mateo, in which the work is to be performed, for each craft or type of workman or mechanic needed to perform the contract. Said prevailing rates are set forth on listing, copies of which are set forth in the specifications for the work in the offices of the Board of Supervisors, Purchasing Agent and Director of Building Construction. Crafts and rates per hour for each craft or type of workman or mechanic needed to perform this contract are listed under Wage Rates. Instructions to Bidders.

11. The prevailing rates so determined are based on a four day, 40-hour week, except as otherwise noted. Existing agreements between the Building Trades and the Construction Industry groups relative to overtime, holidays and other special provisions shall be recognized.

12. It shall be mandatory upon the contractor, and upon any subcontractors under him, to pay not less than the said specific rates to all laborers, workmen or mechanics employed by them in the execution of this contract.

13. A Bond will be required for the faithful performance of the contract in amount of not less than One Hundred Per Cent (100%) of the amount of the bid, and a bond will be required to guarantee the payment of wages for services engaged and all bids contracted for materials used in the performance of the contract in an amount of not less than One Hundred Per Cent (100%) of the bid.

MORE THAN JUST A TUDOR!
An English Squire Manor House! A towering home in the choicest area of White Oaks with the lyrical ceiling of Harpsichord and Grand Baroque. The mellow oak plank floor entryway cascades into an expansive Living Room. The roar of the Baroque fireplace echoing the splendor of English Squire living. Naturally a home of this stature would have an oversized formal Dining Room, with French doors opening onto a path leading to the garden area with its creeking setting. An English Squire and his lady would, of course, have to have an oversized sun-strewn breakfast rm., an A/E, and a separate laundry room with a 1/2 bath. A spiraling staircase leads to 3 spacious bedrooms. An 8-ft. walk-in closet and 2 baths — This is truly a story book home for the home seeker who is easily satisfied — by the best of everything. $69,950.

School Boards Vow to Improve Articulation

Trustees of the two school districts which serve Pacifica Thursday agreed to form a joint committee in an attempt to improve elementary and high school articulation.

The Jefferson Union High and Laguna Salada Elementary School District boards of trustees, meeting in Pacifica, discussed six major areas in which attempts to improve articulation have been made already.

The establishment of an ad hoc committee was one of them, and each board approved the proposed body "in concept." Trustees could not agree on its membership, so administrators will study the matter to make recommendations at a later date.

In proposing the committee, Laguna Salada Supt. James R. Brien pointed to two primary approaches already taken to improve articulation — joint board meetings, such as Thursday's, and subject area meetings of seventh and eighth grade teachers with their high school counterparts and/or department heads.

But Brien said both previous approaches had limitations.

"The first is not too productive because it does not happen frequently, and when it does the public nature of the meeting seems to prevent people from speaking out," he said.

Brien said the second approach "is difficult," because it involves many different department heads at the high school level, "and there are no counterparts from the elementary district."

He added, "There also is very little commitment to articulate as far as staff members are concerned."

partly because they work for two independent agencies."

Brien also pointed out that "one seldom hears from the parents and/or pupils who are the ones experiencing the problems."

The committee would report progress, proposals for progress and unsolved problems to the boards whenever appropriate. Brien's proposal stated, with the boards taking the actions required.

SSF Planners Talk On Parking Challenge

The South San Francisco Planning Commission has extended discussion of a construction permit which challenged the parking regulations of the City zoning ordinance.

The applicant, Gary B. Myers, has requested approval to build a carport on the sideyard of his home at 200 Maywood Way. A number of legal questions, however, arose from this plan, at a recent planning commission meeting.

According to Neil Martin, city planner, each single-family dwelling unit must have a carport or garage.

"The property owner (Myers) has closed off the existing garage. The door has been removed and a wall with a window has been put in without a building permit. The garage floor has not been changed," he said, but if the garage had been legally converted, the building department would have required the applicant to submit a substitute location for the garage or carport.

Myers asked to be allowed to construct the carport to comply with this law, but the proposal was blocked by yet another section of the ordinance, encroaching on the city's right-of-way property.

Apparently Myers' plans show the carport would extend four feet onto the public property line.

Martin therefore recommended that the Commission deny the request for a variance, which was held over for further discussion.

It was also suggested that Myers provide adequate parking for his home by returning the garage door to its original use, or resubmitting plans for a new garage or carport that would permit a variance to be approved.

In other action, commissioners approved construction of an addition to a South San Francisco home. The request for approval was made by Lois O'Connor.

Day Sewing Class Slated

Two daytime dressmaking classes will be offered at the War Memorial Community Center in Daly City Thursdays from 9 a.m. to noon and from 1 p.m. to 4 p.m. They are sponsored by the Jefferson High School District's Adult Division.

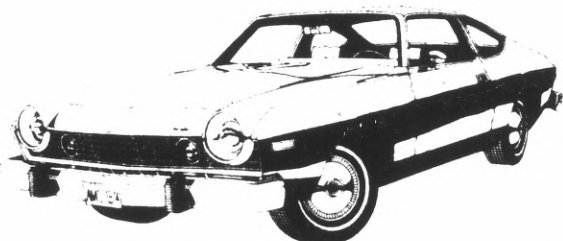

Among the subjects covered will be: fitting and pattern adjustments, fabric selection, "short-cut" techniques, fitting pants and sewing with knits.

Registration will be taken at class meetings. The cost is $4 for the quarter.
